The Cogswell Arms and Crest

The Coat of Arms first appears in 1337 when it was granted to Sir John de Coggeshall, b. 1302, d. 1361, by King Edward III, who knighted Sir John in 1337. We have not been able to ascertain the exact date of the ceremony. The Arms that Sir John chose were a cross between four escallops. The choice of a sable cross on a white or silver field is of great significance, denoting service in the Crusades (1092 -1297). From these dates it is certain that John himself did not see service, but that he was knighted during his term of duty as Sheriff of Essex and Hertfordshire and chose his arms in memory of an ancestor who was in Palestine.

Ralph Coggeshalle was at Jerusalem when that city was besieged by Saladin. One can conjecture that John was in some way connected with Ralph, and chose his arms in Ralph's memory.

The Crest was procured by John Coggeshall of Fornham St. Genovese on 5 September 1575 of Robert Cooke Clarancieux, Duke of Clarence, this being a buck couchant, sable horned and elved or mantled gu dubbed silver. The motto chosen denoted valiance and courage:

"Nec Sperno Nec Timeo" meaning "Neither do I despise nor fear."

During our researches we have found many instances of Cogswells using the Arms and/or Crest, and thus we know that the change of surname is recognised by the College of Heralds. Charles Cogswell of Nova Scotia, b. 12 May 1813, used them on his coach and would have paid an Armorial Bearings Tax to enable him to do so. Maurice Cogswell still has in his possession silver and tableware belonging to Charles, bearing the Crest. On the cover of the "Bicentenary of a Gunmaker" the history of Cogswell and Harrison, the crest appears. We have in our possession a piece of tracing paper 6" X 5" headed "Miss Cogswell Grimsby" which shows the Arms and Crest, and under these is written "Copied for Mr. Benjamin Cogswell in 1822, from the Heralds Office."

A descendant of this Benjamin, the Rev. Thomas Smith Cogswell, who, incidentally, did an enormous amount of research on this subject, took the unusual step of prefacing his will with the words: "This is the last will and testament of me, Thomas Smith Cogswell, formerly of the Vicarage, Cringleford, Norwich … aforesaid, descended from the Cogswell - Coggeswells of Westbury and Dilton, Wiltshire, and through them collaterally, with the American Cogswells and more remotely from Cogshalls, Coxalls, and Coggeshalls of Essex, Suffolk, and Norfolk." Use of the Crest was made by the Rev. Thomas on his notepaper, etc.

PREFACE TO THE 1884 EDITION

"ET PATRIBUS ET POSTERITATE."

There be of them that have left a name behind them,
That their praises might be reported;
And some there be which have no memorial,
Who are perished as though they had never been,
And are become as though they had never been born,
And their children after them."

"Those who do not treasure up the memory of their ancestors do not deserve to be remembered by posterity." -- EDMUND BURKE

Rev. William Cogswell, D.D. [874], as early as 1810, began to collect genealogical data of the Cogswell family. At his death, in 1850, these data were placed in the hands of Rev. Daniel Lancaster, late of New York City, with a view to publication, but subsequently returned to Rev. Dr. Cogswell's brother, Francis Cogswell, Esq. [880], late of Andover, Mass. A few years prior to his death, Mr. Francis Cogswell gave these papers into the hands of the son-in-law of Rev. Dr. Cogswell, with the hope that at some future time they might furnish the basis of a published volume of family history. But nothing further was done until some time in March, 1881, when Mrs. Abby P. Choate, of Salem, Mass., at the suggestion of her father, Hon. George Cogswell, M.D. [881], of Bradford, Mass., who was the youngest and only surviving brother of Rev. Dr. Cogswell, proposed that this genealogical work be carried forward to publication. Accordingly the materials gathered by Rev. Dr. Cogswell, which could have been easily embraced within twenty or thirty pages, were made the basis of further research, which resulted in the accumulation of a surprisingly large amount of genealogical facts. The magnitude of this work had been greatly underestimated, the impression being that the Cogswells in this country were few, and that nearly all the materials for the proposed publication were contained in the papers of Rev. Dr. Cogswell. With this impression the work was entered upon, in the midst of a busy professional life, as a matter affording recreation, and not demanding much time or labor. There was contemplated nothing more than a small pamphlet, which might be prepared and published at slight expense. But only after years of wide research and the expenditure of thousands of dollars has the undertaking culminated in the present volume of more than seven hundred pages.

THE COGSWELLS IN AMERICA embraces names, dates, and facts gathered from various sources through the length and breadth of a continent. There has been exercised in the editorial work a conscientious fidelity to the documentary statistics furnished; so that any violence done to the orthography of proper names, any inaccuracy of dates, and any incompleteness of details must be carried to the account of those furnishing or failing to furnish the accurate and needed data.

In making this contribution to the genealogical literature of America, the author is happy to acknowledge the generous co-operation of those connected with the Cogswell family, and the exceeding courtesy of the thousands with whom he has had correspondence. Town Clerks, Registrars of Probate, and others having the custody of public records have rendered a great and willing service, and sometimes without compensation.

Among those who have generously aided this work in different ways, mention can be made here of only a few, as follows: Hon. George Cogswell, M.D.; Edward R. Cogswell, M.D., of Cambridge, Mass.; Charles Cogswell, M.D., of London, England; Col. Leander W. Cogswell, of Henniker, N.H.; Dr. Henry D. Cogswell, of San Francisco, Cal.; William T. Cogswell, Esq., of Rockville, Conn.; Rev. Augustus Caldwell, of Ipswich, Mass.; Edmund John Cogswell, LL.B., of Kentville, N.S.; Col. Joseph H. Cogswell, of Titusville, Pa.; George E. Morton, Esq., of Halifax, N.S.; Niram J. Cogswell, of Tuscarora, Pa.; Edward Cogswell, Esq., of Sackville, N.B.; the late Col. Milton Cogswell, U.S.A., of Washington, D.C.; Hon. Andrew M. Haines, of Galena, Ill.; Hon. William J. Cogswell, of New York City; the late David C. Whittlesey, Esq., of Washington, Conn.; Alfred Chipman Cogswell, D.D.S., of Halifax, N.S.; James Mason Cogswell, Esq., of Parma, Ohio; Mason Whittlesey Cogswell, Esq., of Elyria, Ohio; William Cogswell, M.D., of Bradford, Mass.; John Francis Cogswell, Esq., of Andover, Mass.; and Hon. John Wentworth, LL.D., of Chicago, Ill. These and many others who have co-operated in this undertaking have the grateful acknowledgments of the author.

This volume is simple in its arrangement, and by a copious Index its contents are made easily available.

The Preface is followed by an Introduction, in which is mention of the Cogswells in England, and some account of their passage on the ocean to this country in 1635. The body of the work gives a record of the Cogswells in America in ten generations, occupying six hundred and thirty-one pages, exclusive of twenty-nine steel engravings. There is added a Supplementa of additional data, and of Cogswells whose lineage is unknown. Then follows an Errata, and the volume concludes with a threefold Index.

The Index refers to the numerical position of the names, and to the page of persons and things of incidental interest and mention. The abbreviations used are those common to such works.

The edition is limited to five hundred copies, nearly all of which are subscribed for prior to publication.

THE AUTHOR

PREFACE

One otherwise quiet evening, several years ago, my telephone rang and I was greeted by the plaintive voice of an unknown woman, who identified herself as Bernice Sonna, from Wyoming. As I gathered my wits to present a vigorous defense against unwanted magazine subscriptions, life insurance, or credit cards, she added: "... from the Cogswell Family Association - I just wanted to know why you didn't renew your membership this year." Now totally off guard, I innocently allowed the conversation to proceed. Bernice told me that my complaint was not uncommon, and that the Association was working hard to overcome its shortcomings, and the problem that I had identified, the useless database, was the most urgent of her problems.

Being a man of strict and proper upbringing, I was powerless to ignore the suffering of a damsel in distress, and asked if, perhaps, I might be of some service. The trap was thus sprung. She said, "Yes, we have only about a hundred members, and someone should copy their family records into some kind of an accessible database." I agreed to tackle this little project, as had the Rev. Jameson, in my spare time. About two weeks later, a large cardboard box arrived by United Parcel Service, and I became the keeper of a pile of assorted papers, and the victim of the most ridiculous, frustrating, irritating excuse for a computer program I had ever encountered.

Six months later, having had very little success in learning to use the so-called "program," and having managed to extract a total of eleven names from it, I ordered a new program, and began writing to Cogswell descendants for additional information, or for interpretation of illegible information. (In one case, I had an oil-stained, well used grocery bag, upon which someone had written his family history, in pencil.) After about a year had passed I had accumulated a certain body of information, and, during a not infrequent call from Bernice, the comment was made: "Oh, by the way, did I mention that we intend to publish a book?" How difficult could it be, I asked myself, to update the information on a few hundred people? (Those who fail to understand Rev. Jameson's Preface are doomed to repeat it.)

Two more years, a heart attack, an angioplasty, and many hundreds of cartons of cigarettes and barrels of coffee later, my original goal of locating my own great-great-grandfather Cogswell remains somewhere over the genealogical horizon, but you are holding the Cogswell Family Association's latest "Little Pamphlet Update," which became this volume.

Obviously, this book would not have been possible without the invaluable assistance and labors of many dozens of cooperative people, whose names would fill many, many pages, and cannot all be listed here. The Cogswell Family Association is deeply in their debt, and I hope this volume will provide some small measure of repayment. In addition to the three people mentioned in the introduction, a few of the many, many descendants who were particularly helpful and most dedicated to the success of this volume were: Charles Atwood, Rev. A. Charles Cannon, Marion Cavin, Edward Everett Cogswell, Edward Russell Cogswell, Jr.; Horatio Adams Cogswell, Howard J. Cogswell, Dr. Howard L. Cogswell, John Heyland Cogswell, Keith & June Cogswell, Lawrence H. Cogswell; Rev. Malcolm Cogswell, Ralph E. Cogswell; Lt. Col. William C. Cogswell, Claire Cogswell Daigle, Alexine Dempster, Tanis Diedrichs, Betty M. Dodge, Etta Faulkner, Edith Hall, Lucia Heins, Phyllis Leverton, Caroline Lutz, Karen Prickett, Peg Simons, William Wood, and Janice Yates.

INTRODUCTION TO THE 1884 EDITON

THE COGSWELLS IN ENGLAND. 1580 - 1635.

It is not the object of this work to give any extended account of the Cogswells in England, but merely as introductory to their record in America to mention the birthplace and the more immediate ancestors of John Cogswell, who with his family were the first immigrants of the name to this country. Tradition and probability identify the name Cogswell with the old English town of Coggeshall, which is located forty-four miles from London, in the County of Essex. Coggeshall was the ancient Canonium of the Romans, and held by them as a military trading post for several centuries, being surrendered only on their departure from Britain. Roman bricks, tiles, broken urns, and coins, relics of Roman possession, have often been found in Coggeshall. In the time of the Saxons it was called Coed Garr's Hall. When Canute, the Dane, ruled Britain, Godwin, one of his favorites, who lived also under Edward the Confessor, came into possession of Coggashael, whose daughter Edward the Confessor married, and whose son was King Harold, the last of the Saxon kings.

In 1046 Coggeshall was given to the Church of Christ for the support of the Benedictine monks of Canterbury. In 1139 the Abbey of Coggeshall was founded by King Stephen and Queen Matilda, the monks being of the Cistercian Order. The first Abbot of Coggeshall was William. In the reign of Edward III, A.D. 1337, Johanus Coggeskale was M.P. from Gloucester, England. For further history of Coggeshall, see The Annals of Coggeshall, by Bryan Dale, M.D., and The Chronicles of Ralph De Coggeshall, in Latin.

It is the family tradition of the Cogswells now holding the ancient Cogswell possessions in Westbury, County of Wilts, England, that their ancestors came from the County of Essex, and were there known as Coggeshall, with the various spellings which appear: Cogshall, Coggeshall, Hoggeshale, Cogesholl, Cogeshole, Coggashael, Cogshol, Coxhall, Cockshall, and Coggshale. Beside the family tradition the experts in such matters say that Cogswell and Coggeshall in England have the same origin.

THE ANCIENT FAMILY ARMS, which appear on the cover of this volume, are recorded in England: ARGENT, a cross between four escallops sable. CREST, a stag lodged sable attired or.

MOTTO: "Nec sperno nec timeo"

The Cogswells lost their head in the reign of Henry VI, and became a widely distributed race, the branches remaining in several counties; and "between Henry VI, 1422, and Charles I, 1625, there was plenty of time for the name to change among bad spellers."

But while Coggeshall and Cogswell have the same origin in England, they are two distinct names in America although sometimes confounded. The Coggeshalls of this country have mostly descended from John Coggeshall, the First Governor of Rhode Island, while the Cogswells, with the exception of a few recent immigrants, have sprung from John Cogswell, who came from Westbury Leigh, County of Wilts, England, and settled, in 1635, in Ipswich, Mass.

WESTBURY, COUNTY OF WILTS, ENGLAND.

The Doomsday Book, by William the Conqueror, 1086, gives the earliest mention of Westbury, which appears to have been held by Editha, Queen of King Edward the Confessor, in the year 1044.

"The King holds Westberie. Queen Editha held it, and it paid geld for 40 hides."

The Arms of Westbury were registered in Heralds Office, London, in 1573, 16 Elizabeth. They are said to be the same that John of Gaunt, fourth son of Edward III, bore, who was born 1339 and died 1399. Westbury, England, was granted its charter of incorporation by Henry IV. It is a parish forming the Hundred of Westbury, County of Wilts, and comprising the borough of Westbury, the chapelries of Bratton and Dilton, and the townships of Hawkeridge, Hayward, and Leigh, and containing about seven thousand inhabitants, upward of two thousand of whom are in the town of Westbury. This town is twenty-four miles northwest from Salisbury and ninety-eight miles west by south of London. The place is of great antiquity. It occupies the site of the old Roman military and trading station, Verlucio. All that remains to tell its Roman history are fragments of pottery, an old aqueduct, and coins, dug up occasionally, bearing the impress of Constantine, Marcus Aurelius, and other Roman emperors. The name is of Saxon origin, intended to designate the importance or the relative position of the town. Here, according to tradition, was the Palace that belonged to the West Saxon Kings. There are three principal streets, irregularly built, branching off toward Frome, Bradford, and East Savington. The inhabitants are supplied with water from springs and a small stream that falls into the Avon. The clothing trade formerly flourished here, one house alone employing a thousand persons. The principal manufactures were broadcloth and kerseymere. There were in and near the town eight manufactures, and several others within the parish. Bryan Edwards, the historian, and Dr. Philip Withers, a writer of some eminence, were natives of Westbury.

THE WESTBURY PARISH CHURCH.

The Westbury Parish Church dates to the time of William the Conqueror, who reigned from Dec. 25, 1066, to Sept. 9, 1087. A new church edifice was erected in 1315, during the reign of Edward II, which was still standing in 1884, as here represented. This fine Gothic structure, nearly six hundred years old, was built in the form of a cross. The nave was seventy-nine feet long and twenty-six feet wide. The transept was seventy-seven feet long and sixteen feet wide. The chancel was forty-eight feet by twenty-four feet. The height of nave was forty feet. The height of chancel was twenty-six feet. The height of the tower was eighty-four feet from the ground. The walls were two feet nine inches thick. Those of the tower were four feet thick. Chained to the reading-desk was a copy of the English translation of Erasmus's Paraphrase of the Gospel and the Acts of the Apostles, which was printed as early as 1550. The ancient communion service of the Westbury Church was pewter. This consisted of two large cups and one large salver. These were ornamented by a figure of Christ riding on an ass, and inscribed with this motto:

"What have we that we have not received of the Lord?" "Anno Domini 1616."

The clock on this church was erected in the second year of James I, 1604, during the vicarage of Rev. William Thompson, John Cogswell's father-in-law, who was vicar from 1603 to his death in 1623. The tower of the church contains a fine peal of six bells. The chimes were the work of Louis and William Cockey, in 1688.

These bells bear the following dates respectively: #1-1671, #2-1738, #3-1620, #4-1619, #5-1616, #6-1714. The sixth weighed five thousand pounds and was the largest bell in the County of Wilts. The fifth and oldest had the Arms of England on one side and the Arms of Lord Ley's family on the other. It was inscribed with this motto [in Latin]: "The Voice of God." Under the shadow of this ancient church "repose the mortal remains of more than thirty generations of the inhabitants of Westbury, while upwards of twenty generations have worshipped beneath its roof.." There were many Cogswells connected with this ancient church, as appears on Church and Parish Register of Westbury. It will be seen also that the name of Cogswell often appears in the Register of St. Mary's Chapel, Dilton, and in the Register of the Chapel of Westbury Leigh.

It is unknown what connection, if any, the Cogswells of Westbury may have had with a certain Richard Cogswell who died June 12, 1534, to whose memory was erected in Faversham Church a large stone, in which was set a brass plate, still in a good state of preservation, on which were engraved the following quaint lines:

"Whoso him bethoft inwardly and oft,
How hard it were to flitt from bed unto the pitt,
from pitt unto payne that ne'er shall cease, certayne,
He would not doe one sin all the world to winn."

ROBERT COGSWELL

Robert and Alicia Cogswell were the grandparents of John Cogswell, immigrant to America in 1635. They lived in Westbury Leigh, County of Wilts, England.
Robert Cogswell, as appears from his will, was a manufacturer of woollen cloths. Little is known of him. The Register of the Parish gives the date of his burial June 7, 1581. Mrs. Cogswell survived her husband. The date of her burial is given Aug. 1, 1603. Their children were: Robert; Richard; Stephen; Joane, m. _____ Freestone; Margaret, m. _____ Franklene; Margery, m. Edward Cogswell, son of Robert and Alice Cogswell, was a clothier, pursuing the business of his father and ancestors for generations. His estates were designated Ludborne, Horningsham, and Ripond Mylls. Ripond Mylls were located in Frome Selwood, a few miles from Westbury. Frome Selwood was so named because near the famous Selwood Forest. Mr. Cogswell died early in 1616, and was buried in the churchyard of Westbury. Mrs. Cogswell survived him but a few weeks.

INTRODUCTION

This book is the product of the foresight of, and funding by, Cyril Gray [8484] Cogswell to preserve the history of the Cogswells in America and Canada, and of the characteristic Cogswell determination shown by Bernice [9759] Sonna, to nurture this work from conception to birth, and of your faithful Historian, who merely performed the necessary labor. Our mutual goal has been to locate and record every possible descendant of John Cogswell, the immigrant, for the ultimate benefit of our descendants. Obviously, despite all the modern methods and materials available to us, we have fallen far short of our objective.

As our beleaguered Treasurer, John [10504] Cogswell, will attest, we have explored every reasonable avenue and spared no expense to locate the various Cogswell descendants, and to acquire their genealogies and family histories. There were, and still are, some disturbing signs of apathy among a few Cogswell descendants, but in most cases the author encountered excitement, encouragement, and cooperation. Accordingly, this book also is the product of their dedication and efforts.

The vital information contained in this work was gathered, in most cases, by mail, and in person at the Family Reunions. Some of our relatives submitted extensive documentation of their data, in the form of birth, marriage, and death certificates, and copies of Family Bible pages. These documents, together with numerous photographs, eventually will be deposited in the Cogswell Family Archive at Cogswell Polytechnical College, Sunnyvale, California, and the Association expects that future researchers will be given free access to these materials. Some submissions arrived with researcher's notes, such as: "VR Vol. .. Pg .. Saybrook," and I have included those notes, usually without further comment, in the text. Some descendants sent information they received verbally or from other unpublished sources. These data are included as the "best available" information, and the reader will have to either judge or determine the accuracy of such information for himself. Everyone who submitted material to be included in this work was given at least one or two (in some cases five or ten) opportunities to review, verify, correct, and comment upon my transcription of their data.

After some discussion among the Board members of the Cogswell Family Association, Inc., the New England Historic Genealogical Society format was decided upon for this book, which should appear somewhat familiar to those acquainted with the 1884 The Cogswells in America, by the Reverend E.O. Jameson, without whose work this volume would have been utterly impossible. All Cogswell blood-relationship numbers flow in strict order of descent from John [1] Cogswell.

The author has received documents indicating Cogswell descent from various royal families, and one incredibly industrious researcher submitted a genealogy that proposed to detail the entire lineage of John Cogswell back to Adam and Eve! These data are not included here, since our mission was to record the biological descendants of John Cogswell, both male and female, rather than his ancestors.

One of the author's correspondents wrote that, in his opinion, family histories may be interesting, enlightening, and enjoyable reading, while family genealogies frequently are dull, boring, and tedious. A casual perusal of this volume may persuade the reader of the latter, but a closer examination will reveal that this genealogy of the descendants of John Cogswell represents the history of North America. Moreover, the truly curious reader may be prompted to seek answers to long-standing and perplexing questions raised herein.

The Rev. Jameson believed that John Cogswell sold his business and personal property and removed his family from England to escape religious persecution. "By the opening of Edward IV's reign (1461) there was in the Wiltshire region a group of substantial 'clothmen,' who were responsible for all the processes of cloth manufacture from the purchase of the raw material onwards, and who marketed their cloths themselves in London, Bristol, and on the south coast. William Athelam, of Westbury, doing business in 1459, was one of these clothmen, and his descendant, John Adlam, in 1545, became, by purchase, Lord of the Manor of Leigh Priors. Upon his death, the manor was inherited by his daughters Edith Lambe and Alice Cogswell. Upon Alice's death in 1603, her half passed to her grandson Roger, who sold it in 1611. From 1650 through the turn of the century, Adlams were a leading non-conformist family, having a major role in the organization of meeting-houses in the area just south of Westbury." Victoria History of Wiltshire, Oxford University Press, 1959.

Recently, Harold Lieberman uncovered evidence of a severe downturn in the cloth industry about the time John Cogswell decided to leave England. In fact, Pemaquid, Maine was a major center of mercantile activity in 1635, and John Cogswell, as a prominent businessman, very well may have received news of business prospects in America, perhaps even from a relative. But why, following the wreck of the "Angel Gabriel," did John Cogswell travel to Boston and arrange transport for himself and his family to that city, the destination of the great "Second Wave of Puritans" to the new world? And why, other than to meet the obvious need to provide sustenance for his large family, did John become a farmer, rather than some sort of manufacturer, processor, or seller of goods?

An estimate of John Cogswell's business interests in England may be inferred by a reading of the following two passages from the Jameson volume: "Anthony Selfe and Henry Allyn gave to John and Elizabeth £40 sterling for one messuage, two cottages, one barn, two gardens, two orchards, 4 ½ acres of land, one of meadow and four of Pasture, with appurtenances in Westbury and Westbury Leigh, Co. Wilts. This was undoubtedly the sale of John Cogswell's homestead just on the eve of his departure for New England." Then, upon their arrival in America: "Mr. Cogswell and his family escaped with their lives, but well drenched by the sea and despoiled of valuables to the amount of five thousand pounds sterling." Prior to the hurricane of 1635, John Cogswell was a very, very wealthy man. However, accurate details concerning his religious beliefs and practices remain unavailable.

Another enduring mystery concerns Captain Robert Cogswell, who transported colonists from New Haven, Connecticut, to New Jersey about 1641. The death in infancy of John's oldest brother, Robert, seems certain. The death of the second older brother, Robert, is less certain, but, then, John would not have been the oldest male child, and probably would not have inherited his father's property. Another possibility arises, since John's uncle, Stephen, had a son, Robert, who was John's first cousin. Lacking any history or evidence of seafaring men in the Cogswell family during that period, we cannot even speculate that this may have been the Captain Robert we seek.

Robert COGSWELL. Son of Edward COGSWELL & Alice. "Probably" died in infancy. Capt. Robert Cogswell, in the spring of 1641, led a group of New England colonists from Conn. to New Jersey. Conn. State Library - GR 929.4 H 735. "Directory of the Ancestral New England Families 1626 - 1700," by Holmes, page lii: "Cogswell, Robert was at New Haven, Conn., 1643, from where he removed soon after." [There is no evidence that this is the Robert Cogswell mentioned here, but interesting questions are raised.] History of Conn., Bingham: June 26, 1637, the "Hector" arrived in Boston Harbor with a contingent of orthodox Puritans, who became the settlers of New Haven. They came from Saint Stephen's Parish, Coleman St., London. The men who led them to New Haven were Theophilus Eaton and John Davenport. April 1638, they did not have a clear title to their lands. Captain Nathaniel Turner purchased land on both sides of the Delaware in 1640, and, in the spring of the next year, he and George Lamberton outfitted a company of 24 families, which set sail under the command of Captain Robert Cogswell.

Leaving these mysteries behind, the history of our great nation then begins to unfold, and a number of interesting patterns begin to emerge. First, it is abundantly clear that our earliest American ancestors literally risked their lives nearly every day. In these "modern" days of routine organ transplants, of medical science finally unlocking the secrets of the human brain, and of microbiologists peering into the very essence of life itself, one can hardly imagine living without antiseptics, antibiotics, pasteurized and irradiated foods, and readily-available health and hygiene products, but our ancestors lived with the knowledge that the slightest scratch or cut might lead to infection, disease, and death.

As for the indomitable early Cogswell woman, her acceptance of a marriage proposal very often was a suicidal consignment to her own grave. The pages of Jameson are filled with seventeen, eighteen, and nineteen year-old women who died while, or soon after, bearing their first child. Then, the fortunate survivors of childbirth very often endured losing their precious children at a gruesome rate. Catherine [696] Cogswell, wife of Ezekiel Newton, was an outstanding maternal success, having given birth to twelve live children, but she then suffered the deaths of five of her children -- within six days! Despite these shocking losses, the Cogswells survived and prospered during the next one hundred and forty years, and the Cogswell family was very well represented during The American Revolution. In fact, the Sons of the American Revolution records, in Louisville, Kentucky, state that a Dr. Cogswell (perhaps James [868] Cogswell) was appointed Surgeon General of the Continental Army, whose "bloody footsteps in the snow marked the route to Valley Forge," and numerous Cogswells are herein identified as Minute-Men, Privateers, financiers, and Soldiers of The Revolution.

Upon reaching the next milestone in America's history, the War Between The States, the Cogswell family gave many of its best sons, both to preserving the oppressive (to some) Union, and to the creation of a new Constitutional Confederation (similar to modern Canada) in North America. Should anyone doubt the accuracy of the cliché about "brother against brother," a reading of the details surrounding Frederic Madison [1649] and Anthony Peavey [1650] Cogswell should dispel the misperception. Another example may be found in William S. [5284] and James C. [5285] Cogswell. And, of course, our South Carolina cousins are justifiably proud of the contributions and sacrifices made by, among many others, Harvey [5609] Cogswell. For a sad but true snapshot of life on the frontier, after the War, see the letter written in Kansas by Amanda [3803] Cogswell. But, rather than summarize here the remainder of the Cogswell's history in America and Canada, the author invites the reader to apply such effort as he may choose, and believes that effort will be amply rewarded.

Assembling and writing this record of a mere fraction of the Descendants of John Cogswell has been a distinct honor, for which I shall remain grateful the remainder of my days. To all the Cogswells in America, Canada, and elsewhere, and to all the future Cogswells, I wish you good luck, and bid you God's speed in the continuing Cogswell saga, which you are now writing.

THE COGSWELLS ON THE OCEAN

MAY 23 TO AUGUST 15, 1635.

The Angel Gabriel was the ship on board of which John Cogswell and Family crossed the Atlantic. This vessel, it appears from the Letters of John Aubrey, the celebrated antiquary of Wiltshire, was built by Sir Charles Snell for Sir Walter Raleigh, "for the designe for Guiana, which cost him the manor of Yatton Regnell, the farm of Easton Piers, Thornhill, and the Church-lease of Bp. Cannings, which ship upon Sir Walter Raleigh's attainder was forfeited."

Sir Walter Raleigh, who was executed Oct. 29, 1618, doubtless made his second and last voyage, A.D. 1617-18, to Guiana, S.A., in the same ship in which the Cogswells came to America in 1635, and which became a wreck off Pemaquid, as Mather says: "was burst in pieces and cast away."

John Cogswell, with his wife Elizabeth and eight children, embarked May 23, 1635, at Bristol, England, on the Angel Gabriel, for New England. Mr. Cogswell had with him his three sons, William, John, and Edward, and five of his six daughters. One daughter was left in England, who afterward married and resided in London. Mr. Cogswell took with him several farm and household servants, an amount of valuable furniture, farming implements, housekeeping utensils, and a considerable sum of money. They were detained many days after going on board the Angel Gabriel for lack of wind, so that not until June 4 did they actually set sail from Bristol. On the same day another vessel, The James, sailed, having on board emigrants for America, among whom was Rev. Richard Mather, fleeing religious intolerance in England to find the home of religious freedom in the New World. He became the minister of Dorchester in the Colony of Massachusetts. Rev. Richard Mather was the father of Rev. Increase Mather, D.D., President of Harvard College, and the grandfather of Rev. Dr. Cotton Mather, minister of Boston, and the distinguished author of the Magnalia Christi Americana. Richard Mather's tombstone was thus inscribed:

"Under this stone lies Richard Mather,
Who had a son greater than his father,
And eke a grandson greater than either."

The Angel Gabriel was commanded by Capt. Andrews, who had on board with him two nephews, John and Thomas Burnham, sons of Robert and Mary (Andrews) Burnham, and ancestors of the Burnhams in America. There were on board also Samuel Haines, ancestor of Hon. Andrew Mack Haines, of Galena, Ill., William Furber, and others seeking homes in New England. Both ships touched at Milford Haven, Pembroke Co., South Wales, and June 22, they put to sea again and proceeded on their way, and many on board saw the English coast fade from view, never to be seen by them again with mortal eyes. The vessels kept company for about two weeks, when they became separated, but arrived about the same time on the coast of New England. The James lay at anchor off the Isles of Shoals, and the Angel Gabriel off Pemaquid, Me., where the great storm and gale of Aug. 15 of that year struck them. The James was torn from her anchors, and obliged to put to sea, but after two days of terrible battling with storm and wave, she reached Boston Harbor with "her sails rent in sunder, and split in pieces, as if they had been rotten ragges." The passengers of the James landed in Boston, Aug. 17, having been twelve weeks and two days on the passage. The Angel Gabriel fared still worse. "The storm was frightful at Pemaquid, the wind blowing from the northeast, the tide rising to a very unusual height, in some places more than twenty feet right up and down; this was succeeded by another and unaccountable tidal wave still higher." The Angel Gabriel became a total wreck, passengers, cattle, and goods were all cast upon the angry waves. Among those who reached the shore with their lives were Mr. Cogswell and his family. Three or four passengers and one seaman perished, and there was the loss of cattle and much property. Thus ended the passage of THE COGSWELLS ON THE OCEAN, and thus became a fact: THE COGSWELLS IN AMERICA.

"The ship James was commanded by Captayne Taylor. They fell in with the ship Angel Gabriel, also bound for New England, before leaving Bristol Harbor. May 27, 1535, while at anchor, Capt. Taylor, of the James, accompanied by Mr. Maud, Nathaniel Wales, Barnabas Fower, Thomas Armitage, and Richard Mather, went on board the Angel Gabriel. Mr. Mather says: "When we came there wee found divers passengers, and among them some loving & godly Christians that were glad to see us there." June 4. Thursday morning, the wind serving us, wee set sayle and began our sea voyage with glad hearts. We set sayle together, five shippes, three bound for Newfoundland, the Diligence, a ship of 150 tunne, the Mary, a small ship of 80 tunne, and the Bess (or Elizabeth), and two bound for New England, the Angel Gabriel, of 240 tunne, the James, of 220 tunne.

[They were detained at Lundy by adverse sea and winds from June 5 to June 9. On the 9th of June the five ships made for Milford Haven, Pembroke Co., Wales, where they anchored, with rough sea and seasick passengers. Finally, they sailed on Monday, June 22. On the evening of Tuesday, June 23, they] "lost sight of the 3 ships bound for Newfoundland, but the master of the James thought it best to stay for the Angel Gabriel, being bound for New England as wee were, rather than to leave her & go with the other three.

"The Angel Gabriel is a strong ship & well furnished with fourteene or sixteene pieces of ordnance, and therefore our seamen rather desired her company; but yet she is slow in sailing, and therefore wee went sometimes with three sayles less than wee might have done, so we might not overgoe her. "In the afternoon, June 29, Captayne Taylor went on board y^{e} Angel, and took Mathew Michel & mee with him. They found that there had been much seasickness on the Angel Gabriel, and two cases of small pockes well recovered again.

"Saturday, July 4, 1635. This day y^{e} sea was very rough, and we saw y^{e} truth of y^{t} scripture [Psalm 107]. Some were very seasicke, but none could stand or go upon y^{e} decke because of the tossing & tumbling of the ship. This day we lost sight of the Angel sayling slowly behind us, and we never saw her again any more.

"Aug. 3. A sore storme and tempest of wind & rain, so many of us passengers with wind and rain were raised out of our beds, and our seamen were forced to let down all y^{e} sayles, and y^{e} ship was so tossed with fearfull mountayns and valleyes of water, as if wee should have beene overwhelmed & swallowed up.

"Aug. 14. While ancored at the Ile of Shoales, when wee had slept sweetly y^{e} night till breake of day, but yet y^{e} Lord had not done with us. On Saturday morning [August 15th], at about breake of day, y^{e} Lord sent forth a most terrible storme of raine & easterly wind, whereby wee were in as much danger as I thinke ever people were. For we lost in y^{e} morning, three great ancres & cables, of wich cables, one having cost £50, never had been in any water before, two were broken by y^{e} violence of y^{e} waves, and y^{e} third was cut by y^{e} seamen in extremity & distress to save y^{e} ship & o^{r} lives.

"And y^{e} Angel Gabriel being y^{n} at anchor at Pemmaquid, was burst in pieces & cast away in y^{e} storme & most of the cattell & other goodes, with one seamen & 3 or 4 passengers did also perish therein."

One passenger of the Angel Gabriel was a young man named Bailey, who had recently married, and embarked hoping to acquaint himself with the new country, make arrangements for a home in America, and then return to England to collect his bride and return to America. But alas! The frightful disaster from which he had narrowly escaped so wrought upon his mind that he was too timid ever again to risk himself upon the ocean, and the account which he wrote home so intimidated his young bride that she could never be persuaded to undertake the voyage. They remained separated by the Atlantic all the rest of their lives.

Rev. Dr. Increase Mather stated as a historical fact that: "The Angel Gabriel was the only vessel which miscarried with passengers from old England to New, so signally did the Lord watch over the plantation of New England."

John Cogswell and family having crossed the ocean and disembarked at Pemaquid, in the unceremonious fashion narrated, were at last in America. They were the first of the name to reach these shores. The elapse of two hundred and fifty years has given to them a numerous posterity, some of whom in each generation have lived in eventful periods, have risen to eminence, and fulfilled distinguished service in the history of the country.

THE ANGEL GABRIEL

1997: Evidence indicates that the ship Angel Gabriel was built around 1615 by Sir Charles Snell for Sir Walter Raleigh. First named Starre, then renamed Jason by Raleigh, the ship took part in Raleigh's disastrous expedition to South America in 1617. The ship was forfeited upon Raleigh's arrest and execution in 1618. Purchased by Robert Aldworth and Giles (or Gyles) Elbridge of Bristol, two members of the Society of Merchant Venturers, the ship was renamed Angel Gabriel. Bristol port records show cargoes carried by the ship from 1619 on.

During the English war with Spain and France, beginning in 1626, the Angel Gabriel became a privateer as well as a cargo carrier. In 1627, the ship was attacked by three Spanish ships near Cadiz, Spain. Its victory in the ensuing battle was commemorated by a contemporary ballad, "The Honour of Bristol, or, The Angel Gabriel."

In 1631, the Angel Gabriel seems to have been "requisitioned" as part of an Iberian fleet for a one-year trip to South America to protect the Spanish and Portuguese colonies from the Dutch. The ship returned from that voyage apparently unscathed.

Warren C. Riess, The History of, and Search For, the Seventeenth Century Bristol Merchantman "Angel Gabriel," Master of Arts thesis, Texas A&M Univ., Dec. 1980.

The Captain John Gallup, whose ship carried the Cogswells and their possessions from Pemaquid to Ipswich, was born in Bridport, Dorset and came to New England with Winthrop in 1630. He was a fisherman and coastal trader, and, according to one source, was the owner and commander of the first vessel built in America. He played an important role in the events leading to and during the Pequot War, including bringing desperately needed supplies to the Providence Colony of Roger Williams. His 1650 will was one of the first wills recorded in Boston. -- Hal Lieberman.

Warren Riess, who is a nautical archeologist, and was a doctoral candidate in history at the University of New Hampshire in 1982, searched Pemaquid Harbor for the wreck of the Angel Gabriel, which he believes lies buried (and preserved) in mud. Earlier, he located and excavated an 18th century ship buried under a parking lot near the Manhattan waterfront. But the Angel Gabriel has eluded Riess and the teams of divers and all their sophisticated scientific equipment.

His research was funded by a variety of sources, including the Maine Historical Preservation Commission and the Blaisdell Family Association, whose members trace their ancestry to Ralph and Elizabeth Blaesdell, and their son, who survived the wreck. Underwater detection equipment has played a major role in the search, but so far to little avail because of the area's unusual geology. Riess used a proton magnetometer to detect iron objects, a sub-bottom profiler, which uses sound waves to detect material buried in the mud, and a side scan sonar, which can indicate the shape of an object on the bottom. Riess and five other divers unsuccessfully checked magnetic anomalies for two weeks in August, 1982. The highly accurate (and expensive) equipment faithfully plotted the location of unusually iron-rich ledges in the area, rather than iron cannons and other artifacts.

Next, they investigated areas where local fishermen said they had hauled up pieces of ceramics and other artifacts, or experienced unusual snags, as well as other areas where a ship might have ended up after being wrecked on the rocks. Riess said he plans to continue the search next summer [1983], and noted that it has taken an average of 9 ½ years for divers to find sunken ships in Florida waters.

PEMAQUID, MAINE

A major English settlement was established in Pemaquid about 1625, less than two decades after the founding of Jamestown in Virginia, and only five years after the Mayflower landed at Plymouth in Massachusetts. This settlement became England's northeasternmost military outpost in what is now the United States, and had a colorful and eventful history; raided by pirates, beset by Indians as well as the French, who were settling Acadia not far to the north, often scoffed at by the self-righteous Puritans who ran the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Recent digging has led to the uncovering of numerous 17th and 18th century foundations, a large number of artifacts suggesting a high standard of living, and an enhanced knowledge of everyday life in one of the earliest English settlements established solely for economic reasons.

Archeologists have learned that a fortified warehouse was built at Pemaquid in 1630, and it was attacked in 1630 by the pirate Dixy Bull, who got away with £500 worth of goods; a tavern was built about 1650, a customs house and a wooden fort, Fort Charles, was erected in 1677, following the 1676 attack by angry Indians; and Fort William Henry was built there in 1692. The Massachusetts Bay Colony devoted most of its budget that year to the erection of Fort William Henry, and the governor, Sir William Phips wrote: "I have caused a large stone fort to be built at Pemaquid, strong enough to resist all the Indians in America." The Fort was destroyed by the French and Indians in 1696, and then Fort Frederick was built by Col. David Dunbar to replace it in 1729, but, although abandoned, it was destroyed by rebellious colonists in 1775.

What led settlers to Pemaquid in the first place was the opportunity to fish and trade. Early visits by English explorers, including Capt. John Smith in 1614, had shown that cod were numerous. It was a venture capital scheme, purely economic. The disapproving Puritans frequently sought to discredit the inhabitants of Pemaquid, but there is evidence that the Puritans went to Pemaquid to trade when they needed livestock and other goods. National Geographic News Service.

Late in 1982 research came to a halt and there were no plans for future digging, except to survey proposed routes for the road and power and sewer lines for a housing development. About 10 percent of the fort site, and perhaps one third of the civilian area has been excavated. The location of Fort Charles, built before Fort William Henry, is still undiscovered. But, Pemaquid may be safe in the hands of Mother Nature, since the geology of the area tends to preserve it, unlike Jamestown, Virginia, much of which has been eroded away by time and tides.

THE COGSWELL-RELATED PROPERTIES IN ENGLAND

During the 1996 Cogswell Family Reunion, your shamelessly acquisitive author asked Harold and Mary (Cogswell Button) Lieberman, well-traveled, educated, and accomplished historians, to assemble a layman's guide for those of us Cogswells who might manage only a single opportunity to visit the Cogswell properties in England. The following is their contribution, for which many present and future Cogswells may be acutely grateful.

THE 1591 EDWARD COGSWELL HOUSE

This house is at 145 Westbury Leigh, on the Frome Road (A3098), little more than a mile from the Westbury town centre. It has been painstakingly restored by Peter and Mary Jones, who are also responsible for the research which concluded that it was built by the clothier Edward Cogswell. The keys to the discovery were the images of a clothmark, the date 1591, and the letters C and EA on the fireplace mantel, which led them to look for a clothier who was well established by 1591, whose surname began with a C, whose given name began with an E, and whose wife's given name began with an A. Thus they found Edward and Alice Cogswell.

LUDBOURNE

This house is at 15 Church Street, not far from All Saints Church in the center of Westbury. In the cloth processing days it was a workshop as well as a dwelling. As "Ivy House," it was purchased in 1953 by Denis and Kathleen Cooke, who have filled it tastefully with antiques. A plaque at the front door now identifies the house as Ludbourne, with a brief account of its discovery by Lt. Commander Reginald "Reggie" J. Cogswell.

LITTLE HORNINGSHAM HOUSE

This house was leased by Edward Cogswell in 1608 from the Longleat Estate. He probably used it as a wool loft for raw materials and a collection point for cloth woven for him by weavers in the vicinity. Longleat records show that Edward also farmed the land near the house and employed servants to work it. From Westbury take A350 south for about four miles, turn right (west) on A362 for about a mile, then turn left (south) on the road to Horningsham. At Horningsham (about three miles), go to the end of Pottle Street. The house, known as "Last House," is now in private hands.

RIPOND PLACE

This is where Edward Cogswell had his fulling mills, also leased from the Longleat Estate. Nothing is left of the mill buildings but a few fragments of masonry half-buried in the banks of the mill stream, now called Redford Water. Take A350 south from Westbury, turn right on A362 for about three miles to Lane End by the White Hart Inn, just past Corsley. Turn left and then, almost immediately, right on a narrow one-lane road that goes down to the stream. You will have crossed the county line and now are in the Frigglestreet section of Frome, in Somerset.

THE OLD VICARAGE

This was the home of the Rev. William Thompson, vicar of the parish, and his wife, Phillis. Their daughter, Elizabeth, married John Cogswell. Dating from before 1580, the house is just across the green from All Saints Church. It is in excellent condition and has been in private hands for a very long time.

OLD DILTON CHURCH

(The Church of the Blessed Virgin Mary). Many Cogswells worshipped in this church, which is noted for its oak box pews and three-decker pulpit. Some parts date to the 13th century.
To reach it, go south out of Westbury on A350. Very soon the signpost to "Old Dilton" will appear. Turn right and go less than a mile to the church.

BROKERSWOOD

This is today the site of Woodland Park and Museum. It is believed that many non-conformists, possibly including John Cogswell and his family, held secret worship services in the woods at this site. It lies west of Westbury and can be reached by a road northwest from Westbury Leigh, or a road southwest from North Bradley, which is between Westbury and Trowbridge.
From either direction, there are signs to Woodland Park.

THE COGSWELL FAMILY ASSOCIATION, INC.

The Cogswell Family Association, Inc., (CFA) was incorporated in the state of Massachusetts in 1989, after a 10-year period involving efforts by several family members and related groups. In 1979 Dal Ecklund, President of Cogswell Polytechnical College, then located on Nob Hill in San Francisco, California, proposed to family members in attendance at the college's Founder's Day celebration that a society of Cogswell family descendants be formed under the auspices of the college.

Progress in this direction was slow until 1985, when the college relocated to Cupertino, California. At that time regent of the college, Sumter A. [9953] Cogswell, of nearby Los Altos, California, began working closely with the college to familiarize family members with a school founded by a Cogswell (in 1887 by Dr. Henry D. [4057] Cogswell, San Francisco dentist). During the following three years, names and addresses of over 500 Cogswells were collected from telephone directories in local libraries, and letters were sent offering background on the college and inquiring about their possible interest in a family organization and a genealogy data bank. Offered also were high-quality reproductions of two books fundamental to Cogswell family history--The Cogswells in America (1635-1884) by E. O. Jameson (1884) and Cogswells and Cloth in Avon Vale by Lt. Cdr. Reginald J. Cogswell RN (1983).

During this program it was learned that Cyril G. [8484] Cogswell of Southern Pines, North Carolina, was working toward establishing a family association. After many telephone conversations Sumter and Cyril had an initial meeting in 1987 in Southern Pines to discuss their mutual interest and how best to work together. Cyril was devoted to the objective and had invested considerable time and funding to assemble a slate of officers and directors preparatory to incorporation. In 1989 again in Southern Pines, Cyril, Sumter, and William H. [9929] Cogswell, III of Charleston, South Carolina, prepared a letter announcing the recent formation of the CFA and offering membership to family and associates. These three men were the initial president, first vice-president, and second vice-president, respectively.

In 1990, with about 100 paid members, the CFA's first meeting was arranged to be held in Salem, Massachusetts, near Ipswich and the Cogswell Grant (home site of John Cogswell, who emigrated from England in 1635). This meeting was arranged and chaired by John H. [10504] Cogswell, secretary/treasurer, of Needham, Massachusetts. Declining health precluded attendance by Cyril, and soon thereafter he became president emeritus and Sumter became president and newsletter editor for the following three years.

The Cogswell Grant

A summary of an article by Nina Fletcher Little:

On the 14th of August, 1635 the Angel Gabriel arrived at the Isle of Shoals. On the 15th of August she was destroyed by the great hurricane of that year, and 100 passengers, 23 seamen, 23 cows, 3 suckling calves, and mares were washed ashore on the beach at Pemaquid. Here John left his family while he went to Boston and made arrangements with Captain Gallup to transport him and his wife and children to the newly-settled town of Ipswich.

In 1636 John received two grants from the town. One was a plot "Upon part whereof ye sd John Cogswell hath built an house." This lot was in the center of Ipswich and probably contained about twelve acres. The second grant was three hundred acres, entered in the original Grants Book: "Granted to Mr. John Cogswell 300 acres of land at the further Chebokoe, having the river on the southeast, land of William White on the northwest, and the creek coming out of the river toward William White's farm on the northeast. Bounded also on the west with a creek and a little brook." The western boundary of this land was what now is the main road from Ipswich to Gloucester, and the brook in back of the old cemetery. The Essex River flowed on the south and east, and a creek made the northeastern boundary. The boundaries of the original Grant have changed amazingly little in 300 years, and most of the land still is contained in the property owned by Mr. David Choate, and later ourselves.

John Cogswell died in 1669, and the exact location of his original house remains uncertain. The Cogswell Family History says that he built a log house in 1636, and then removed to further Chebokoe, where he spent the rest of his days. The deeds of land that passed between John and his sons do not bear out this information.

On November 30, 1651, John deeded to his son, William, a parcel of ground containing 60 acres, which was bounded on the southeast by the Chebacco River, and one corner of which was "upon son William's barn." This is the first mention I have found of a building on the Grant, and I believe this deed to William embraced the lot where the present house now stands.

In December 1651, John deeded to John, Jr. 60 acres of land, "In consideration that he hath yielded to me all his right unto the house and lands of the Falls." (This property was given to Cornelius Waldo, husband of their daughter, Hannah.) Almost immediately, John, Jr. sold his 60 acres to his brother William.

On February 16, 1657, "I, John Cogswell (senior), having been granted by the Town 300 acres, whereas I have granted part of said farme to John, who sold to William, and part to William, in consideration of 230 pounds of current money of New England, have sold my whole farm (except 12 acres formerly sold to Roger Haskall) to said William Cogswell." Thus, William acquired the entire original Grant, but there was no mention of a house, since, I believe, William already owned the only house on the property. However, at John's death, the inventory of his property included "A house, barn, and 10 acres of upland, &c," and a small amount of household goods. Had this property been on the Grant, it would have belonged to William and would not have appeared in the inventory of John's property. I presume that John lived on the small Grant in the town of Ipswich.

John, Jr., appears to have leased property from William, and to have built a house on the north side of the river, but the house fell into disrepair after his death at sea. It is believed that the house simply was abandoned, but his son, John, died in possession of 65 acres of land with dwelling house, barn, orchard, and two woodlots worth 368 pounds. This was in Chebacco, but probably not within the Grant.

Until 1698 the main road from Ipswich to Gloucester left the present road by the Lane farm, crossed the high fields, and came through Strawberry Lane, and from there passed the site of the present house, and went straight down to the river. In 1656 the town of Ipswich arranged with William for the use of this road: "Granted to William Cogswell in full satisfaction for the highway through his father's and his farm, three acres and a half of land joining to Thomas Bishop's land on the back side of his farm." The town "also agreed with William to keep a ferry on the Chebacco River, for which he was to receive two pence a person for everyone he carried over." This ferry was replaced by a horse bridge in 1666, and a new bridge was built in 1698.

In 1668 William was given "felling grants to fell timber for the end of a barn, for an outhouse, and 2 trees for planks for a barn floor, and for 200 rayles and posts for a yard by his house, and a tree for stakes for hedging," in total, "4,000 foot of boards." Later, "William Story informed the Selectmen that Wm. Cogswell hath felled seven white oaks without leave, the Constable is ordered to distrain him of 10 shillings for every tree according to Town order."

In 1687 William, nearly 70 years old, decided to divide his land, as his father had done, and deeded the Grant to his four sons, after the death of him and his wife. William's farmhouse is placed by the mention of the dam before it, and of the creek leading from the dam to the river. A dam still spans the marsh here in front of the house, connecting with the creek, which is mentioned in the deed. Thus, William's house stood, at least in 1688, on or about the same site the Cogswell house occupies today. Soon after we moved here we discovered an old mill stone behind the house, half buried in the ground. It probably is one of the grinding stones from William's 17th century malt-house, which probably stood on that very spot. The stone has been left just as we found it.

William, the eldest son, received several parcels, one of them being the present Lane farm, and the others at the eastern end of the property, toward Point of Rocks. His father also bequeathed to William "my crane and andirons, my iron spit, and the iron of the cart wheels." This house and land were later transferred to Thomas Choate about 1750.

John was given the land between the Ipswich road and Spring Street, with part "reserved in length to Jonathan's land for a perpetual highway for the common benefit of those that shall dwell upon my farm." William also left John "my lesser fouling piece, my sword and belt, my timber chain and my cart and wheels." His son, William, inherited the property, and in 1732 built a house, which was occupied by Cogswells until comparatively recent times.

To Adam he gave all the property to the south of Spring Street, but "the west corner of this land shall be reserved a quarter of an acre about the spring for a watering place in common." Also, "an iron cittel, a pair of iron cart wheels, and chain." Adam left this property to his son, William, but parts of the property were later sold to the Choate family in 1743, 1754, and 1757.

To Jonathan he gave his dwelling house and 80 acres, "together with all housing, outhousing, barns and malt house that are or shall be upon said four score acres … at the death of me and my present wife, Susanna, and not until then, the whole premises shall be Jonathan's." The premises included William's "iron crane, my long ladder, my malt screen and measures, my bushel, half bushel, and peack." One of the boundaries was "along the dam before the farmhouse to the end of the creek by Chebacco River." Mention of the dam is contained in three later deeds, once in 1754, when part of Adam's land was sold to the Choate family, again in 1839, when this farm was transferred to the Boyds, and in our own deed of 1937.

Jonathan added to the property, by purchases from John Burnham and others, and left the property to his son, Jonathan, Jr. It is believed that Jonathan, Jr. took down the old house and built the present one. A careful scrutiny of events leads us to believe the house was built in 1730, when Jonathan, Jr., married his second wife, Elizabeth Wade. We suppose that, with the rapid increase of his family, he would have found the simple old house of his grandfather, with its crude 17th century interior, too small and cramped. And, it seems logical that he would build the new house using the old cellar, the same mammoth chimney with its four large fireplaces, and some of the old timbers and boarding. He probably would have used the new-fashioned paneling instead of the plain sheathing, and plastered walls and ceilings in place of the exposed framing of the earlier period.

Jonathan, Jr., left the Grant to his son, Jonathan, III, who came of age in 1761. In 1791 he purchased the old Pickering place (now the Hobbs House) on Western Avenue, and moved into town. For the next forty-eight years the Cogswell farm was leased to tenants, and tradition says that for a time his sister, Mary Cogswell, lived in the house. Jonathan, III died in 1819, leaving no will, and his son, William, IV, had died some years earlier at age 30. The farm was tenanted by Col. William Andrews, Jr., and contained 130 acres, with buildings, and was valued at $12,500. Then, Mrs. Elizabeth Wise Cogswell, widow of Jonathan, III, died in 1838 and left the farm to her three daughters, who sold the farm for $10,000.00 to Adam Boyd, a prominent ship builder of Essex. Mr. Boyd's descendants owned and lived upon the farm until 1925, when it passed to Mr. Arthur Dana Story. Finally, the estate of Mr. Story sold the farm in 1937 to Mr. and Mrs. Bertram K. Little. Thus, in the 303 years since the original Grant, the land has changed family ownership only three times.

With the exception of a two-room addition to the northwestern side of the ell, we have made no structural changes in the old house, have moved no partitions, changed no woodwork, except in one room, replastered no ceilings or walls, and cut no doors. The house remains essentially as it was built, and we hope and believe that it still has a long and useful life ahead of it.

Author's note: Nina Fletcher Little died 3 March 1993. Her husband, Bertram Kimball Little, died 21 June 1993. The Cogswell Grant was left by them to the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities (SPNEA), which has removed nearly every trace of "Cogswell" identification from the house and property. What sort of "preservationists" would erase the hallowed name of John Cogswell, the beloved father of the Cogswells in America?

Descendants of John Cogswell

First Generation

1. John [1] COGSWELL. Son of Edward COGSWELL & Alice. Born 1592 in Westbury Leigh, Wiltshire, England. Baptism 7 Apr 1592. Died 29 Nov 1669 in Ipswich, Mass. Buried in Old North Graveyard, Ipswich, Mass.

At the age of twenty-three years he married the daughter of the parish vicar, succeeded to his father's business, and settled down in the old homestead. His parents died soon after his marriage, and he received his inheritance, "The Mylls called Ripond, situate within the Parish of Frome Selwood," together with the home place and certain personal property. Like his father, he was a manufacturer of wollen fabrics, largely broadcloths and kerseymeres. The superior quality of these manufactures gave to his "mylls" a favorable reputation, which appears to have been retained to the present (1884) day. There are factories occupying much the same locations and still owned by Cogswells, which continue to put upon the market wollen cloths that in Vienna and elsewhere have commanded the first premium in the world exhibitions of our times.

John Cogswell doubtless found in London a market for his manufactures. He may have had a commission house in that city, which would account for his being called, as he sometimes has been, a London merchant.

Mrs. Cogswell's father was the Rev. William Thompson, vicar of Westbury from 1603 to his death in 1623. About twenty years after their marriage, with a family of nine children about them, and having the accumulations of a prosperous business, Mr. and Mrs. Cogswell determined to emigrate to America. The particular reasons which led them to leave England may have been much the same that influenced others in their times. It appears that early in 1635 Mr. Cogswell made sale of his "mylls" and other real estate, and soon after, with his wife, eight children, and all their personal effects, embarked at Bristol, May 23, 1635, for New England. Their passage was long and disastrous. Their arrival in America was after a most unexpected fashion. Having reached the shores of New England, they were landed very unceremoniously at a place called Pemaquid, in Maine, being washed ashore from the broken decks of their ship "Angel Gabriel," which went to pieces in the frightful gale of August 15, 1635, when such a "sudden, dismal storm of wind and rain came as had never been known before by white man or Indian." Traces of this storm remained for years.

Mr. Cogswell and his family escaped with their lives, but well drenched by the sea and despoiled of valuables to the amount of five thousand pounds sterling. They were more fortunate than some who sailed with them, whom the angry waves gathered to a watery grave. On leaving England Mr. Cogswell had taken along with him a large tent, which now came into good service. This they pitched, and into it they gathered themselves and such stores as they could rescue from the waves. The darkness of that first night of the Cogswells in America found them housed beneath a tent on the beach. The next day they picked up what more of their goods they could, which had come ashore during the night or lay floating about upon the water. As soon as possible Mr. Cogswell, leaving his family, took passage for Boston. He there made a contract with a certain Capt. Gallup, who commanded a small barque, to sail for Pemaquid and transport his family to Ipswich, Mass. This was a newly settled town to the eastward from Boston, and was called by the Indians, "Aggawam." Two years earlier, March, 1633, Mr. John Winthrop, son of Gov. John Winthrop, with ten others, had commenced a settlement in Aggawam. An act of incorporation was secured August 4, 1634, under the name of Ipswich. The name Ipswich is Saxon, in honor of the Saxon queen Eba, called "Eba's wych," i.e., Eba's house; hence Yppyswich or Ipswich. Some derive it from Gippewich, meaning "little city." In the early records are found the following enactments of the General Court:

"April 1st, 1633. It is ordered that noe pson wtsover shall goe to plant or inhabit att Aggawam, withoutt leave from the Court, except those already gone, vz: Mr. John Winthrop, Jun'r, Mr. Clerke, Robte Coles, Thomas Howlett, John Biggs, John Gage, Thomas Hardy, Willm Perkins, M. Thornedicke, Willm Srieant.

"June 11, 1633. There is leave graunted to Tho: Sellen to plant att Aggawam.

"August 5, 1634. It is ordered that Aggawam shal be called Ipswich.

"At Ipsidge a plantation made upe this yeare. Mr. Ward P___, Mr. Parker T____. James Cudworth, 1634."

It was probably near the last of August, 1635, when Capt. Gallup sailed up the Aggawam River, having on board Mr. and Mrs. Cogswell, their three sons and five daughters, and whatever of household goods his barque would carry, the rest of their effects being taken by another ship. The settlers of Ipswich at once manifested an appreciation of these new-comers. They made John Cogswell liberal grants of land, as appears from the following municipal records:

"1636. Granted to Mr. John Cogswell Three Hundred acres of land at the further Chebokoe, having the River on the South east, the land of Willm White on the North west, and A Creeke romminge out of the River towards William White's farme on the North east. Bounded also on the West with a Creek and a little creeke.

"Also there was granted to him a parsell of ground containinge eight acres, upon part whereof ye sd John Cogswell hath built an house, it being the corner lot in Bridge street and hath Goodman Bradstreet's house-Lott on the South East.

"There was granted to him five acres of ground, which is thus described: Mr. John Spencer's buttinge upon the River on the South, having a lott of Edmond Gardiner's on the South East, and a lott of Edmond Sayward's on the south west; with six acres of ground, the sd John Cogswell hath sold to John Perkins, the younger, his heirs and assigns."

The grant of three hundred acres of land at the further Chebokoe was some five miles to the eastward, in a part of Ipswich that was constituted, May 5, 1679, Chebacco Parish; and February 5, 1819, incorporated the town of Essex. A settlement had been commenced in the Indian Chebokoe, in 1635, by William White and Goodman Bradstreet.

It appears that John Cogswell was the third original settler in that part of Ipswich which is now Essex, Mass. On the records of Ipswich his name often appears. It is uniformly distinguished by the appellation of Mr., which in those days was an honorary title given to but few, who were gentlemen of some distinction. There were only about thirty of the three hundred and thirty-five original settlers of Ipswich who received this honor. Very soon after his arrival, March 3, 1636, by an act of the Court, John Cogswell was admitted freeman, to which privileges none were admitted prior to 1664 except respectable members of some Christian church. To freemen alone were given the civil rights to vote for rulers and to hold public office.

Ipswich In The Massachusetts Bay Colony, pp. 290-291, by Thomas Franklin Waters, The Ipswich Historical Society, 1905: "Five members of the Cogswell family were among the twenty prominent people who signed the petition drawn up by the Rev. John Wise on behalf of Goodwife Proctor, who stood accused of witchcraft. Mary Warren alleged that she had been threatened and abused by Goodwife Proctor, and that she had seen apparitions of people who had long since been murdered by the wife of John Proctor. This evidence prevailed and the good woman was sentenced to death."

For several years Mr. Cogswell and family lived in the log-house with its thatched roof, while many of their goods remained stored in boxes, awaiting some better accommodations. It is said there were pieces of carved furniture, embroidered curtains, damask table linen, much silver plate; and that there was a Turkey carpet is well attested. As soon as practicable Mr. Cogswell put up a framed house. This stood a little back from the highway, and was approached by walks through grounds of shrubbery and flowers. There is an English shrub still, 1884, enjoying a thrifty life, which stands not far from the site of the old Cogswell manor. This shrub, tradition says, John Cogswell brought with him from England.

Not long since, Mrs. Aaron Cogswell, of Ipswich, had in her possession, it is said, the famous coat of arms which has been widely copied in the family. This is described as "wrought most exquisitely with silk on heavy satin." A few years ago, a stranger borrowed the curious relic of this too obliging lady, and, like the jewels of the Egyptians, borrowed by the Israelites, it was never returned.

For some years after the completion of their new dwelling-house Mr. and Mrs. Cogswell lived to enjoy their pleasant home, surrounded by their children, well settled, some of them on farms near by, made of lands deeded to them by their now aged parents. The time came at length, after a life of change, adventure, and hardship, and Mr. Cogswell died at the age of seventy-seven years. The funeral service for John Cogswell was conducted by the Rev. William Hubbard, pastor in Ipswich and since known as 'the Historian of New England'. The funeral procession traversed a distance of five miles to the place of burial, the Old North graveyard of the First Church. They moved under an escort of armed men, as a protection against the possible attack of Indians.

Mrs. Cogswell survived her husband but a few years. She was a woman of sterling qualities and dearly loved by all who knew her. Side by side in the old churchyard in Ipswich have slept for more than two hundred (now more than 300) years the mortal remains of this godly pair, whose childhood was passed near the banks of the river Avon; who, leaving behind the tender associations of the Old World, came with their children to aid in rearing on these shores a pure Christian state. They did greater work than they knew, died in the faith of the Gospel, and while their graves are unmarked by monument of stone, their souls are safe in heaven, their memory blessed, and their names honored by a posterity in numbers hardly second to that of Abraham.

Second Generation

2. Daughter [2] COGSWELL. Daughter of John [1] COGSWELL & Elizabeth THOMPSON.
She married, lived in London, and was the only child of John Cogswell who did not come to America.

3. Mary [3] COGSWELL. Daughter of John [1] COGSWELL & Elizabeth THOMPSON. Born circa 1617 in Westbury Leigh, Wiltshire, England. Died in Boston, Mass. Mrs. Mary (Cogswell) Armitage may have been the Mary Cogswell who was in the family of Gov. Bellingham, and joined the Boston Church, Aug. 29, 1647. The date of her death is unknown. She married Geoffrey ARMITAGE, 1649. They resided in Boston, Mass. He was a tailor, and afterwards a merchant. Mary Cogswell was his second wife. He was either the son or brother of Thomas Armitage, who came to America aboard the "James" in 1635. He was made a freeman March 14, 1639, in Boston. Mr. Armitage appears a man of ample means. He was one of the executors named in John [5] Cogswell's will. Geoffrey and Mary (Cogswell) Armitage had the following child:

14 i. Samuel [14] ARMITAGE b. Apr 1651.

4. William [4] COGSWELL. Son of John [1] COGSWELL & Elizabeth THOMPSON. Born 1619 in Westbury Leigh, Wiltshire, England. Baptism Mar 1619 in Westbury Parish Church. Died 15 Dec 1700 in Chebacco, Ipswich, Mass. Buried 17 Dec 1700. He was sixteen years of age at the time he came with his parents to America in 1635, and about thirty when he was married. He settled on the home place, and lived in a house that then stood a little to the north of the site now occupied by the ancient Cogswell house. He possessed many of the traits of his father. He was a man of Christian character, and one of the most influential citizens in that part of Ipswich. It was largely by his efforts that the Gospel ministry was established in Chebacco. After two years of opposition, and several appeals to the General Court, at last, May 5, 1679, the Parish of Chebacco was established. Mr. Cogswell gave the land on which to erect a meeting-house, a lot thirteen rods by three. This first meeting-house in Chebacco stood on what was long known as Meeting-house Hill. Mr. Cogswell entertained at his house the Ecclesiastical Council that met Aug. 12, 1683, to organize the church and to obtain Mr. John Wise, their first pastor.
William Cogswell was the defendant in the "historic" suit, Cogswell vs. Cogswell, brought by his nephew, John [26] Cogswell, son of John [5] Cogswell, who had appointed William guardian of his children, and who died at sea. After two years of trials and appeals, William was found innocent, and John was ordered to pay the court's costs, £13 4s.
William married Susanna HAWKES, daughter of Adam HAWKES & Anne (Brown) HUTCHINSON Mrs., 1649/1650 in Lynn, Essex, Mass. Born 13 Aug 1633 in Charlestown, Middlesex, Mass. Died circa 1696 in Ipswich, Essex, Mass.

In 1652, John's wife died, "leaving three children, the youngest a year old. Mr. Cogswell was much broken by the affliction, and his health being poor, he arranged with his sister, Mrs. Waldo, to care for his little ones, constituted his father and his older brother, William, their legal guardians, made his will, and sailed for England in the fall of 1652. He arrived in London, visited his sister and other friends, attended to matters of business, and when about to embark for home he wrote a touching and affectionate letter to his parents, which was dated London, March 30, 1653. Early in the autumn of 1653 Mr. Cogswell started on his return to America, but died on the passage, Sept. 27, 1653, at the age of thirty years. His orphaned children were brought up among his friends, their uncle William acting as their guardian."

The name of John's wife remains a mystery, but Helen Riesterer, of Anaheim, California, submitted to the OCCGS Quarterly, March 1981, information to the effect that the wife's name was "Miss Rogers."

Some time in 1675 he brought suit against his uncle, William Cogswell, giving rise to the famous case of Cogswell vs. Cogswell. The case was decided 29 May 1677, in favor of the defendant, after several trials.
He married Margaret GIFFORD, daughter of John GIFFORD, M.D. & Margaret TEMPLE, 22 Jul 1674 in Ipswich, Mass. Born 1653 in Lynn, Mass. Died 1724. They had the following children:

27. Samuel [27] COGSWELL. Son of John [5] COGSWELL. Born 1651 in Chebacco, Ipswich, Mass. Died "prior to 1701" in Lynn, Mass. He came to Saybrook unmarried, about 1665, and settled on a farm. The Colonial Records of Connecticut state that he was made a Freeman, May, 1669. There has been some uncertainty about his parentage, but there is little doubt he was born in Ipswich, Mass., and was the son of John [5] Cogswell.
Samuel sold 10 acres of salt marsh in Cheboke to Abraham Perkins in 1674. This was land let to his father, John, for 1,000 years. Joshua Sachem was an Indian Chief, who owned a large territory of land lying in Saybrook, Colchester, Hebron, and perhaps other towns in Connecticut. Joshua willed a large tract, if not the whole of it, to a company of men, and they divided it. The land willed by Joshua Sachem was divided into eighty-six shares among the proprietors of Hebron in 1702. John Wastall owned about two hundred and sixty-three acres, and Samuel Cogswell owned one hundred and nine acres. [No explanation is given as to how Samuel died prior to 1701 and received a share of land in 1702. This and the following references may apply to Samuel Jr.] In 1710 the proprietors voted a second division, each proprietor receiving not less than forty acres. Samuel Cogswell received one hundred and one acres. Later, by a third division in 1710, he received twelve acres. He left a total of 3,000 acres, in nine undivided parts, to his children. Lyme, Conn. became Saybrook, Conn. after 1666.

They were the first white settlers of North Bridgewater (now Brockton) from Chelmsford. While living in North Bridgewater, their children walked from home to the church, a distance of about seven miles round trip.
In 1710 a dispute arose concerning whether his property was in the Town of Bridgewater, or within the bounds of the County of Plymouth.

Edward Cogswell is mentioned as a member of the "New London Society United for Trade and Commerce," in 1732. This probably was Edward of Ipswich, Mass., for we find him soon after, 1735, in Preston, Conn., where he remained some ten years; he then made a purchase of wild land in the northern part of New Milford. On September 10, 1745, he purchased from John Baker and Caleb Mallory the 33rd lot of the south tier of lots in the "North Purchase," and became, in 1747, the first settler in that region. Subsequently, he bought other lands in the vicinity, established iron works, the first manufacturing interest in New Milford, and did much to develop the resources of that new country.
It is said that Edward Cogswell made a "Family Record of the Cogswells," and that there exists [1884] a copy of it in Cazenovia, Madison County, N.Y. This has not been found, but his grandson, John, left a record, in possession of M.W. Cogswell, Esq., Elyria, Ohio, which has been of great service. John Cogswell [613] says that his Uncle John and Aunts Lucy and Martha, children of Edward Cogswell, removed to some place in Vermont, near a lake.
Edward's grave is near that of his youngest son, Major William [222] Cogswell, in the cemetery of New Preston Parish, Washington, Conn.

221. Emerson [221] COGSWELL. Son of Edward [81] COGSWELL & Hannah BROWNE. Born 19 Jul 1732 in Ipswich, Mass. Died in England. He was an expert and ingenious goldsmith. Prior to the Revolution, King George III made a proclamation offering a very large reward to any person who would discover or invent "a perpetual motion." Mr. Cogswell became interested, and went to England on this business. Whether he thought he had actually made the discovery, or was expecting to make it, we are not told. Alas, his bright dreams of great wealth from the King came to a speedy end. He died soon after his arrival in England.
He married Mary MILES, daughter of Joseph MILES & Deborah (Ferris) WELSH, Mrs., 29 Aug 1751. Born 14 Oct 1733 in New Milford, Conn. Died 5 Nov 1763 in New Milford, Conn. Buried in Upper Merryall Cem., New Milford, Conn.
Her father, Joseph Miles, purchased of Edward Cogswell ninety acres of land, with a house, saw and grist mill, parts of lots 33, 34, 35, lying on both sides of the East Aspetuck River, New Milford, Conn. They had the following child:

603	i.	Patience [603] COGSWELL

222. William [222] COGSWELL, Maj. Son of Edward [81] COGSWELL & Hannah BROWNE. Born 22 Dec 1734 in Ipswich, Mass. Died 19 Feb 1786 in Washington, Conn. Buried in the Cemetery at New Preston Parish, Wash., Conn. William, when about twenty-one years old, purchased of his father, Aug. 29, 1756, ninety acres of land. To this he added from time to time, until he became the owner of some 2,000 acres in and about New Preston Parish. He had a tavern, a country store, an iron foundry, a saw and grist mill, a potashery, a distillery and malt-house. From his orchards were made a thousand barrels of cider per annum. He kept twenty cows, a hundred sheep, and employed twenty men.
Mr. Cogswell was among the first to initiate revolutionary measures in resistance of English oppression. At a town meeting held Sept. 20, 1774, he was one of a committee chosen to collect and communicate all necessary intelligence of movements in and about Boston and other parts of the country. In Dec., 1776, he was on the Committee of Inspection and Correspondence. Mr. Cogswell was Justice of the Peace, Major in the State militia, and Captain in the army of the Revolution. He was in command, under Washington, in the retreat from Long Island. Major Cogswell died in the prime of life, leaving a widow and nine children. Gen. Washington and many of the principal officers of the Revolution were, at different times, entertained at Major Cogswell's tavern. Gen. Washington had breakfast at William Cogswell's tavern the morning after learning of Arnold's treason. As a magistrate, Major Cogswell married people. A couple from the old country, whom he had married, came to his yard and wished to be unmarried. He said, "I'll do it." There stood nearby a block and cleaver. "Here," he said, "whichever of you wishes to be unmarried, put your head on this block and I'll cut it off." The couple decided not to become unmarried.
DAR Patriot Index, p. 142: Cogswell, Wm. Capt. in Lt. Col. Sam'l Canfield's Reg., Maj. in Col. Benjamin Hinman's Reg.
He married Anna WHITTLESEY, daughter of Eliphalet WHITTLESEY & Dorothy KELLOGG, 4 Nov 1762 in Conn. Born 27 Jan 1744 in New Milford, Conn. Died 10 Jan 1810 in New Preston, Litchfield, Conn. Another source gives her birthplace as: Wethersfield, Hartford, Connecticut. Her father was a grandson of the immigrant, John Whittlesey, of Saybrook, Conn., who married Ruth Dudley, the granddaughter of Gov. Thomas Dudley, governor of Massachusetts in 1634, 1640, 1645, and 1650. Her mother was the granddaughter of John Chester, who married Sarah Wells, a daughter of Gov. Thomas Wells, governor of Connecticut from 1655 to 1658.
In the absence of Major Cogswell, the Tories would gather about the premises and seek to intimidate the children and Mrs. Cogswell, saying, "News has just come that Major Cogswell is dead; he was killed in the last battle." Mrs. Cogswell armed herself with a chair, and cleared the house in quick time. She was known to say, "I never feared a Tory."

Emerson Cogswell kept a tavern. In the Revolution he was a Minute-Man and held the commission of Second Lieutenant in a company organized Feb., 1776, under Capt. George Minot and First-Lieut. Edward Wright. Lieut. Cogswell was with his company in Cambridge in 1776, and in Rhode Island in 1778. He was a member of the "Committee of Safety." Mr. Cogswell resided in a building in later years known as "The Old Block-House." After his father's death, his mother resided with him and kept school in his house, having her grandchildren among her pupils. Subsequent to the War, Lieut. Cogswell went to Canada to learn "the art and mystery of making napped hats," and became the first manufacturer of napped hats in the region. He was called "Leftenant Cogswell," a man of great sociability, and the story-teller of the town. "The Social Circle of Concord," which had a somewhat noted existence from 1782 to 1808, was organized at Mr. Cogswell's house, he being one of the three present at the first meeting. The other two were Rev. Mr. Ripley, who boarded, before his marriage, in Mr. Cogswell's family, and Mr. Samuel Bartlett. Mr. Cogswell was a great reader, and familiar with the Bible. The copy from which he read bears the marks of use. It was a Dublin edition of 1714, and is in the possession [1884] of Mrs. William S. Robinson, of Malden, Mass.
"The Old Elm-Tree," still standing on the corner next to the church, in Concord, Mass. (1884) was planted a hundred or more years ago by Lieut. Cogswell.
Emerson Cogswell owned numerous properties in and around Concord. Around 1798, Mr. Cogswell was "bound" (vouched, or cosigned) for the debts of one Joseph Brown, of Concord, who ran away to Virginia. Among those debts was an obligation to Wheeler and Brooks for $254.80. The court seized a thirty-two acre parcel of land belonging jointly to Emerson Cogswell, Reuben Brown and Jesse Brown, and sold said land to satisfy the debt. "By one of those strange coincidences often seen in similar cases of sale made under law, Mr. Cogswell's share, a third of this land, was sold for exactly $254.80, just enough to pay the debt and legal fees," according to Sheriff Joseph Hosmer. Mr. Cogswell then sold his home, which he had built, and other properties, reimbursed his former partners, "and as a landowner in Concord, or anywhere else, he was known no more." The sale of his homestead to John Stafford was recorded March 18, 1799.

He first married Rebecca Cotton BALDWIN, daughter of Samuel BALDWIN & Rebecca COTTON, 3 Dec 1780 in Weston, Mass. Born 10 Jul 1764 in Weston, Mass. Died 17 Aug 1823 in Concord, Mass. Contradicting the information given the Rev. Jameson, the Baldwin genealogy states that the widow Rebecca (Cotton) Baldwin (1725-1795) would have been fifty-five years of age when she married James Cogswell, and that her daughter, Rebecca Cotton Baldwin, was Jame's wife.
They had the following children:

234. Nathaniel [234] COGSWELL, Dr. Son of Jonathan [88] COGSWELL & Elizabeth WADE. Born 9 May 1739 in Chebacco Parish, Ipswich, Mass. Died 24 May 1822. Nathaniel was but a lad of thirteen when his father died. At age seventeen, he was indentured, Sept. 1756, by his guardian, Joseph Appleton, to Dr. John Perkins of Boston, until the completion of his twenty-first year, "to learn his art or mystery as much as may be in physick, Perkins surgery, anatomy, and pharmacy," for which he was to "pay to the said John Perkins, sixty-six pounds, thirteen shillings, and fourpence lawful money," and Dr. Perkins agreed "to find meat, drink, washing, and lodging fitting and suitable for the said Nathaniel."
After his settlement in Rowley he did not practise physic, for which by a natural distaste and too great sensibility he was ill-fitted, but soon transformed his lancet into the sickle, and the drug-shop into a garner. He considered agriculture as the most independent and least responsible occupation, and was delighted not only with theoretical, but with practical and experimental husbandry. Unlike his brother, Col. Cogswell [235], of Ipswich, who had for many years served both in military and legislative capacity, Nathaniel was averse to public life, yet, at the news of the Lexington fight, he equipped his horse and himself and hurried to Cambridge, where he remained until the alarm was over.
His heart and cares were centered in home. He loved tranquillity and hated wars and rumors of wars, and thought that only by pride cometh contention. Still he was an independent, self-thinking man, inflexible in principle and active in beneficence. May 8, 1775, he was appointed by the town of Rowley one of the Committee of Correspondence, who were authorized to see that the resolves of the Massachusetts Provincial Congress were duly regarded and executed, and on March 19, 1776, he was appointed one of the Committee of Safety.

Edward Payson, who was born June 20, 1657, in Roxbury, Mass.; graduated from Harvard College in 1677; settled Oct. 25, 1682, fourth pastor in Rowley, Mass., where he continued in office for fifty years, until his death, Aug. 22, 1732. One of his descendants, Heather Cogswell, wrote an article about John Cogswell the cabinetmaker in 1981, from which the following is extracted: "Dramatically placed in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts is the mahogany double chest made circa 1782 by John Cogswell of Middle Street, Boston. It is an object of supreme beauty and infinite grace. The piece was commissioned by Elias Hasket Derby, an eminent merchant and shipowner, whose fleet sailed between Spain and France, Calcutta and Bombay, carrying everything from ginseng to shoes. So brisk a trade was established that Mr. Derby reportedly achieved one of the largest fortunes in America in the eighteenth century. Thus, the Derbys patronized the most skilled and respected craftsmen of their day."

The chest remained in the hands of the Derby descendants until 1973, when it was purchased by the Boston Museum.

Heather Cogswell also wrote that John Cogswell married four times and held a number of town offices. Since Sarah is described as John's widow, it is presumed that she was the fourth wife. No details of the previous wives, or of possible other children, are known to the author.

John married Sarah _____. They resided in Boston, Mass., and had the following children:

672 i. Sarah [672] COGSWELL

He resided and had a store in Boston until just before the siege of that town in 1775, when he was compelled to seek safety for himself and family by removal to Marlboro, Mass., where he continued in trade and also carried on the manufacture of potash.

He married Abigail DAWES, daughter of William DAWES, Hon. & Lydia BOONE, 24 May 1773. Born 27 Dec 1752 in Boston, Mass., corner of Ann St. & Scottow Alley. Died 19 Nov 1833 in Marlboro, Mass. "Abigail ... was brought up in a home so strict ... that the children were not allowed to laugh or look out of the window on Sunday."

John Adams said to Samuel Adams that they had seen four noble families rise up in Boston, the Craftses, Gores, Daweses, and Austins. Abigail's brother, William Dawes Jr., a distinguished patriot, fought at Bunker Hill. When Paul Revere started from Charlestown for Lexington and Concord on the night of April 18, 1775, William Dawes Jr., left Boston by the road over the Neck at full speed towards Lexington, rousing the people as he rode.

THE COGSWELLS IN NOVA SCOTIA

HEZEKIAH COGSWELL

HEZEKIAH COGSWELL and his family were the first of the name of Cogswell who settled in the Royal Province of New Scotland.

The early history of Nova Scotia, called by the French, Acadie, from a native Indian term denoting local abundance, is replete with stirring and romantic episodes. Both British and American authors have found in it material for narrative and poetry, and the more its records are studied the deeper is the interest attached to them. From a geographical point of view, the situation of the Province has many natural advantages, and its mineral wealth, when properly developed, must secure for it a great future. Until the end of the last century [19th] it included the Province of New Brunswick, rich in forest and rivers, but even in its curtailed proportions it adds to it mineral resources many productive fields for the agriculturist; and it was in the richest of these, near the Bay of Fundy, that the drama was enacted in which the French Acadians made way for the New England Puritans. Sympathy with the expatriated is always strong under any circumstances, but the American poet, Longfellow, has, by his genius, shed a warm glow of sentiment over the banished Acadians, which blinds the reader to the real facts of the situation. It must be borne in mind that Nova Scotia was for years a battle-field for the arms and diplomacy of Great Britain and France. To Britain, through the agency of the Cabots, belongs the credit of the discovery of the Province, for Columbus had only explored in the Gulf of Mexico. The Gilberts followed with actual residence; and on this fact, mainly, depended the claims for possession made by Great Britain.

No one can do other than deplore the sufferings which attended the expatriation of the French Acadians, but their removal had become a political necessity. The act was performed with all possible humanity by Col. Winslow, a native of New England, who commanded the forces charged with the unpleasant duty. Col. Winslow himself said that the work was "contrary to his make and temper," and he was not likely to aggravate the sufferings of the unhappy people.

The vacant places in Acadia were soon filled. New England, whose vigorous sons took so prominent a part in all the battles of Great Britain on the American continent, stepped into the vacant farms, and among her pioneers in New Scotland, came from Connecticut in 1761, HEZEKIAH COGSWELL.

In 1758 a proclamation was issued by the Provincial government, setting forth the great extent and value of the lands vacated by the French, and inviting those who might desire to settle on them to apply to "Mr. Hancock, at Boston, or the Messrs. Delancie and Watts, at New York." Applicants were informed that the land was to be divided into townships of one hundred thousand acres, or about twelve square miles, and to insure a considerable resident population, it was resolved that no one person should receive a grant exceeding one thousand acres.

By a deed bearing the date July 21, 1761, some lands in the township of Cornwallis were assigned to a number of persons, among whom appears the name of "Hezekiah Cogshall," for one share and a half of the original allotment. Tradition speaks of three founders of the new population as being remarkable for stature and physical strength. Mason Cogswell, son of Hezekiah Cogswell, who is referred to above, was one of the three. It was said that he could lift a barrel of cider at arm's length, bring it to his lips, and drink out of the bung hole.

404. Hezekiah [404] COGSWELL. Son of Samuel [134] COGSWELL & Anne (Mason) DENISON. Born 19 Feb 1709 in Saybrook, Conn. Died circa 1806 in Cornwallis, N.S. He received a conveyance of land in Lebanon, Nov. 6, 1731, from his parents, and made purchase of other land, May 19, 1732, in Hebron, Conn., where it appears he resided in 1758.
Hezekiah was the first of the line to remove, in 1761, to the Royal Province of New Scotland, where they settled in Cornwallis, Nova Scotia. As one of the sixty-three original people invited by royal proclamation to Cornwallis, Hezekiah was entitled to one right for himself, and a half-right for his family. Each right consisted of a town lot of three acres, a farm lot of forty acres, and seven hundred acres of wilderness land. His farm was located near the Upper Dyke Bridge, known as Canard Street.
The Rev. Jameson, on pages 110-115 of The Cogswells in America, gave a remarkably astute account of the various problems between the English and French-speaking inhabitants of Nova Scotia. Jameson posits: " ... no actual difference exists, except in language, between the French Canadians and their British compatriots [and] it may be worthwhile for the former to consider whether they would not do wisely to give up this one acquired peculiarity, and so identify themselves in all respects with their neighbors speaking the English tongue."
After more than a hundred years of wrestling with this "peculiarity," the people of Quebec narrowly voted down the most recent, late twentieth-century, proposal to create a separate, French-speaking, country within Canada. Many inhabitants of Quebec believe (probably correctly) that their culture is in jeopardy of being undermined and absorbed by the coarse, vulgar, and rapidly-declining American culture, which is being advanced world-wide by the American advertising industry.

Hezekiah married Susanna BAILEY, circa 1730 in Lebanon, Conn. Born after 1716 in Mansfield, Conn. Died after 1806 in Cornwallis, N.S. According to the records of Lebanon, Conn., there were two children, Eliphalet Cogswell, bapt. Dec. 15, 1734, and Samuel Cogswell, bapt. Nov. 22, 1741, who may also have been sons of Hezekiah and Susanna Cogswell.
It was said that she was a strong-minded woman and, "She held the purse-strings and ruled her house in all that a woman might." The New Brunswick Genealogical Society, in "Generation," Autumn 1992, lists her birth as 1711 in Mansfield, Conn., and her death about 1801, in Annapolis, Nova Scotia. They resided in Labanon and Hebron, Conn., and in Cornwallis, N.S., and had the following children:

955	i.	Daniel [955] COGSWELL b. 12 Oct 1731. d., unmarried, 30 Jan 1819 in Becket, Mass.

He owned a small piece of land in Haddam, which he sold in 1739. Nothing more is known of him. Numerous scraps of circumstantial evidence strongly support the belief that Lydia was their daughter, but proof has proven elusive. See: Lebanon Marriages, from Early Conn. Marriages.
He married Sarah BAILEY, 16 Jan 1733. They had the following child:

He had the following child:

407. James [407] COGSWELL, Rev. Dr. Son of Samuel [134] COGSWELL & Anne (Mason) DENISON. Born 6 Jan 1720 in Saybrook, Conn. Died 2 Jan 1807 in Hartford, Conn. Buried in Hartford, Conn. He graduated from Yale, class of 1742, completed theological studies, was ordained Dec. 28, 1744, and became pastor of the church in Canterbury, Conn. After twenty-seven years, he resigned, and became pastor of the church in Scotland Parish, Windham, Conn., where he served until 1804. Apparently, he returned to Yale College later in life, since it is said that he earned his D.D. in 1790.

After a sixty-year ministry, he retired and lived with his son, Dr. Mason Fitch Cogswell, for the last few years of his life. It was said that Rev. Dr. James Cogswell was "a good logician and a graceful speaker, moderate in his own opinions, tolerant of those of others, mild in temper, and affable in manner, dignified in the pulpit, and conciliatory in private." Among his students of theology was Josiah Whitney, future President of Yale College.

In 1801 he rode on horseback, in company with his mother, Mrs. Anna (Whittlesey) Cogswell, to visit his brother, Roger [241] Cogswell, in Hartford; and from thence to Preston, to visit his uncle, Nathaniel [212] Cogswell, who, he says, "was smart and active, although eighty-seven years old, the last uncle living on the Cogswell side." From 1801 - 1851, John Cogswell kept a careful record of his family. This record, which Rev. Jameson reported to have been "in the hands of J. Austin Cogswell, Elyria, Ohio," concludes: "Thus of all our family, I, John Cogswell, remain and leave space for recording my death to other hands; while I, at the age of sixty-six, am permitted to register their beginning and ending. Truly, the days of the years of their pilgrimage have been few and evil in this vain world." [The present author vigorously disagrees. After 362 years, it may be said of the Cogswells that their days and years have been many, and productive beyond John's ability to calculate, or even imagine.]

[The reader might be interested in knowing that the subject of federal "term limits" was a source of heated debate during the last two decades of the twentieth century, and voters in a number of states passed such limitations on career politicians at the state level. Members of the U.S. Congress, while enjoying very large salaries, lavish benefits, and multi-million dollar retirement packages, have thus far avoided the imposition of term limits, though a few, following the example of Nathaniel Upham, have voluntarily torn themselves from the political feeding frenzy at the public treasury. These same twentieth century career politicians have amassed a national debt of more than $5 trillion dollars, while assuming un-funded liabilities of more than $8 trillion dollars. Together, these sums exceed the net worth of the United States of America, so Congress and the President have agreed (1997) to stop borrowing money -- in the year 2002.]

During the War of the Revolution, Dr. Cogswell was appointed Surgeon in the Army, serving in Cambridge, Mass., and vicinity, in the summer of 1775, and at the Battle of Bunker Hill. He wrote to his father, 7 June 1775: "We have been for several days expecting a visit from our neighbors and making preparations to give them a suitable reception. Last night 1,100 men began to break ground at Dorchester Hill. Col. Putnam began to entrench last night at Bonchee's Hill, on Charlestown side. They have fired a number of cannon upon him this morning. The troops are healthy, orderly, and in fine spirits, waiting with the utmost impatience to have the Regulars sally out. The generals in this colony (as it is now called) are worthy men, but they are not trained to make such quick dispatch of business as military duty requires. Our men are the most orderly, able, and best disciplined of any in the Service. The powder from Connecticut came in yesterday; the arrival of it gave us much joy."
23 June 1775: "A man whose name is Clark made his escape from Boston. He says the Regulars had upwards of a thousand killed and wounded. We have had no considerable engagement since. The Regulars have ceased their fire, and are entrenching on Bunker Hill. Our men are fortifying Spectacle hill, and are so strongly entrenched that I do not feel much concerned."
23 Aug 1775: "It has been and is very sickly in our camp, though I think it is now rather abating. We are in expectations of an attack from the enemy soon." Later, he was stationed at Stamford, Conn., as Examining Surgeon of Volunteers for the Army. Still later, he was assigned to New York, where his brother, Mason Fitch [481] Cogswell, was his assistant.
19 Dec 1783: "I have been sick with the fever and ague. Mrs. Loyd, Mrs. Cogswell, and Alice have had it, but we are now (God be thanked) in good health. I am going to New York soon, and if I can purchase medicine and get a store, shall move in." After the Revolution he practiced in New York City, and was listed in the 1786 directory as: "James Cogswell, Surgeon and Apothecary, 219 Queen Street."
10 Aug 1792: "We are all in confusion in the city. A few persons by endeavoring to monopolize Bank Stock at 6 per cent, have occasioned an almost universal bankruptcy among the dealers in stocks. The evil will be felt a long time here, and extend its influence throughout the Continent."
He died from yellow fever, contracted by fidelity to his profession. He was buried in a church vault in New York, and his remains were later removed and interred in the churchyard of Christ's Church, Manhasset, Long Island. His tombstone there reads: "He was a Patriot, actively engaged as a member of the staff of Washington in the great struggle for Independence."

Davenport arose and said: "I am against an adjournment. The Day of Judgement is either approaching or it is not. If it is not, there is no cause for an adjournment; if it is, I choose to be found doing my duty." Her brother was the Hon. 970. Samuel [970] COGSWELL, Lieut. Son of James [407] COGSWELL, Rev. Dr. & Alice FITCH. Born 23 May 1754 in Canterbury, Conn. Died 29 Aug 1790. Occupation: Merchant in Lansingburg, Rensselaer Co., N.Y. Education: Yale College, 1777. He was a Lieut. in the Army of the Revolution, and was present, with Col. Thomas [324] Cogswell and Major Amos [328] Cogswell, on the banks of the Hudson when the officers of the American Revolution organized, in 1783, The Society of Cincinnati. He wrote, 9 Mar 1779: "Officers who deserved Furloughs sooner than me and who left Camp in the Winter have not yet returned. They are daily expected, and as soon as they come I have the promise of a Furlough. My duty through the Winter has been rather severe, but I have always been able to perform it. Not a single tour have I missed since I have been a soldier. The vices of Camp are innumerable, and perhaps the number is as large in this Detachment as in any upon the Continent. Many of the Officers are men of very loose principles either as to moral or religious duties."
15 July 1780: "... your son has safely arrived at Camp [Camp Prackness, N. Jersey], and with health sufficient to do the duty of a Soldier. I left New Haven the day after my father did, and at evening reached Stamford. As I passed through Fairfield and Norwalk (the first time I have seen them since their destruction) I was almost persuaded to vow eternal enmity to the name of Briton. I tarried at Stamford six days. From Stamford I came to West Point. From West Point I traveled in company with Gen. Arnold. The most of the Army I found destitute of Tents, and encamped in a Wood with no other security ... than the boughs of Trees, or now and then a bark hut. Besides being very ragged and very dirty (which by the way they were unable to prevent for want of a change of clothes), they were supplied with but half allowance of Meat, Bread, or Rum. Whilst I pity the poor fellows for the neglect with which they were treated, my admiration was drawn forth at a view of the patience with which they bore it. Not a single complaint have I heard made by a Soldier since I joined the Army. The arrival of the French Fleet at Newport very greatly exhilarates our Spirits, and gives us glorious prospect of soon retaliating for the loss of Charlestown. We expect speedily to have the pleasure of joining the troops of our glorious Ally at the White Plains. Should an attempt be made upon New York, the danger will be great, and Death will be very busy, for the besieged will doubtless defend themselves with the most obstinate bravery.
If it should be the will of Heaven that [I] shall be found among those who shall nobly fall in the defense, and for the support of so glorious a cause as that in which we are engaged, you may have reason to say 'I thank thee, Heaven, my Boy has done his duty!"
19 Sep 1781: "Arnold's infamous conduct at New Haven is still a subject of conversation. We wait with a great deal of impatience for the event of General Washington's expedition to Virginia. Nothing short of a total capture of Lord Cornwallis and his army would satisfy us."
After the War, he was on a gunning excursion, 29 Aug 1790, with a college classmate, Mr. Dickinson, when, by some accident, his friend's gun was unexpectedly discharged, and Samuel was killed almost instantly, at age thirty-six.

He married Mary BACKUS, daughter of Ebenezer BACKUS, Maj. & Mercy EDWARDS, 1784. Born 18 Mar 1767 in Windham, Conn. Died 21 Nov 1834 in Cleveland, Ohio. They resided in Lansingburg, N.Y.
Following Samuel's untimely death, Mrs. Mary (Backus) Cogswell married, 2 May 1792, Rev. Ebenezer Fitch, son of Jabez and Lydia (Huntington) Fitch, the cousin, early playmate, and college classmate of her lamented husband. The tradition is that Mr. Fitch had made an offer of marriage to the beautiful Mary Backus about the same time that she received a similar proposal from Samuel Cogswell, neither being aware of the other's intentions. Mr. Fitch became a kind father to the children of his lamented cousin, and a devoted husband to Samuel's widow. Later, he became the first President of Williams College.

Rev. and Mrs. Fitch had eleven children, including Samuel Cogswell Fitch, b. 11 Apr 1795, d. 7 Aug 1796, and Mason Cogswell Fitch, b. 1798, d. 1849.

971. Mason Fitch [971] COGSWELL, Dr. Son of James [407] COGSWELL, Rev. Dr. & Alice FITCH. Born 28 Sep 1761 in Canterbury, Conn. Baptism 4 Oct 1761. Died 10 Dec 1830 in Hartford, Conn. His mother died while he was but a lad of eleven years, and soon after he went to be in the family of Hon. Samuel Huntington, who had been President of the Continental Congress, and, from 1786 to his death in 1796, Governor of Connecticut, and his wife, Martha (Devotion) Huntington. While in Mr. Huntington's family he fitted for college, and was entered at Yale, the youngest member of his class in 1776, and graduated in 1780 with the highest honors, having the Valedictory Oration. During the Revolutionary War, he was an Army Surgeon. In 1789 he began his practice in Hartford, and soon became known throughout Connecticut as an able surgeon and obstetrician. He first introduced the most important operation in removing a cataract from the eye, and was the first one in this country to secure the carotid artery with a ligature. He was once described as: "The most accurate, neat, and rapid operator in the country."
His own daughter, Alice, by severe illness was rendered deaf and dumb at the age of six years. Her father was inspired to see if something could not be done for such persons in this country. It was largely by his influence the Rev. Thomas Gallaudet visited Paris, gathered information, and brought back with him M.L. Clere, in 1816, by whose services the first asylum for the deaf and dumb was established in America -- and Alice Cogswell was its first pupil.
In 1824 Dr. Cogswell established the Hartford Retreat for Insane People, which still [1884] operates on Washington Street, Hartford. Dr. Cogswell was the President of the Connecticut Medical Society from 1812 to 1822, and the first Chairman of the Yale Medical School - Department of Anatomy & Surgery. But, he is most fondly remembered as the Founder of the American School For the Deaf, May 1816, the first philanthropic institution for the handicapped in the United States.
Apart from his medical activities was his membership in that unique group of young literary men who are known to us as "The Connecticut Wits." He was not only a surgeon, but a scholar, poet, proficient musician, and a peer of Dr. Hopkins, Judge Trumbull, Dr. Strong, Mr. Theodore Dwight, and others. His last illness lasted only five days, and the whole city of Hartford was moved; people stood in groups along the sidewalks to inquire in whispers of the great physician's health. His daughter Alice sank under the bereavement, and she died two weeks later. See: International Abstract of Surgery, Dec. 1920, pp. 495-497. Landmarks in Surgical Progress, by Irving S. Cutter, M.D., Sc.D., Chicago

See: Henry Hall, The History of Auburn, 1869, pp. 75-76.
"Of bears there was no end. This class of indigenes made sad work with the crops, and often came boldly into the village ... [A bear, in 1802] once made a nocturnal descent upon the house of Daniel Cogswell, on the opposite side of the outlet. The house was unfinished, and the door was closed with nothing more than a blanket. Bruin pushed this aside during the night, and, in stepping in, proceeded to rummage the cabin for provisions. After licking out the frying kettle, he crept under the bed, which, containing the family, was suspended in the air by means of poles resting on crotches driven into the ground, and went to sleep. He departed in the morning, without molesting any of the terrified inmates on the bed, all of whom had passed a sleepless night, with their heads under the clothes." Daniel Cogswell, as witness, signed a slave manumission by John L. Hardenburgh, the founder of Auburn, N.Y., April 14, 1803. Daniel married Anne TUTTLE, daughter of Amos TUTTLE & Mary PARKS. The Cogswells were, and still are, a self-reliant race, always filled with the idea that they were as good as anybody, and that everybody who respected themselves and behaved well were as good as they were, but no better, whether of high or low degree. They never played toady to men of high station to gain their favor or notice, but always acted upon the idea that worth makes the man, and the want of it the fellow."

It was said she was a discreet, witty, and a fine-looking lady with clear blue eyes. There were few specimens of useful or fancy work then known in which she did not instruct her daughters. She enjoyed with them, and encouraged their reading of, sound literary and religious books, and gave them an example which they could never forget.

She married John MORTON, Hon., son of Lemuel MORTON & Martha NEWCOMB, 28 Apr 1810. Born 25 Mar 1781 in Cornwallis, N.S. Died 3 Mar 1858 in Halifax, N.S. Buried in First Presbyterian Church Cem., Cornwallis. He was descended from an English family, whose ancient homestead, dating to 1300, was near Blackburn, England. His earliest ancestor in this country was George Morton, who came over in 1623 in the ship "Anne." John had oversight of his grandfather's farm, and later purchased a tract of uncleared land, and with woodsman's axe and manly perseverance he laid low the primeval forests and brought under cultivation many wide acres near the head waters of the Cornwallis River, not far from the present town of Berwick, N.S.
He joined the local militia in 1810, with the commission of Captain. Afterwards, he sold his hard-won farm in the wilderness, and in 1815 built a new house near the place where his grandfather had lived. He rose in command until in 1835 he was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of the Sixth Regiment. Later, he was chosen to represent Cornwallis in the Provincial Parliament in Halifax. In 1835 he was appointed Justice of the Peace for Kings County, and Commissioner of Sewers and Dykes. In 1840 he was appointed by Queen Victoria to the Legislative Council of Nova Scotia. In 1846 he was commissioned by Lord Falkland, then Lieutenant-Governor of Halifax, as Keeper of the Rolls, for his native township.
He was an influential owner and director of the Western Stage Coach, the Cornwallis Bridge, and the Electric Telegraph Companies. John Morton gave the name "The Upper Dyke Village" to that part of Cornwallis in which he lived.

He was a Private in the Army of the Revolution.
There is a tradition, apparently well-founded, that the ancestors of the American Bonfoeys were two brothers, Jerathmel and Benanuel Bonnefoy, who started from France together with other Huguenots for America, and it is said that Jerathmel died during the voyage. The French Huguenots who landed at what was later called Bonnefoy's Point, in Echo Bay, and settled the town of New Rochelle, New York, were part of a larger party of immigrants of this faith starting together after the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. Some went to Delaware, some up the Hudson River, and others into the Connecticut Valley. David de Bonnefoy sold his land in France about 1690 and came to New Rochelle, but settled at or near Middletown, Connecticut.

Benanuel Bonfoey II, served in the Fifth Battalion, Wadsworth's Brigade, Captain Cornelius Higgins' Co., from Haddam. This battalion was raised in June 1776 to reinforce General Washington's army at New York. He was in the battle of White Plains, October 28, 1776. He reinlisted in the Sixth Regiment of Connecticut Line, April 2, 1777, serving in Capt. Pond's Company as a Pvt. until honorably discharged March 29, 1780. He was pensioned in 1818, at $96 a year, and his widow received the pension as long as she lived. After the Revolution, Benanuel was engaged in Ship-caulking, and, from 1804-1808, he built the house on Candlewood Hill. They had the following children:

3769	i.	David [3769] BONFOEY

2063. Maria [2063] COGSWELL. Daughter of Samuel [970] COGSWELL, Lieut. & Mary BACKUS. Born 15 Aug 1790 in Lansingburg, N.Y. Died 9 Jan 1870 in New York City. As related earlier, her father died as the result of a tragic accident in the prime of his life, when she was but an infant. Under the care of her step-father, Maria developed into a remarkably graceful and beautiful young woman with a vigorous intellect. She was introduced to and developed a preference for "the standard English classics." Under such influence she grew up to early girlhood loving all things beautiful and bright, and entering with eager zest upon the somewhat larger life which was opened to her. Most attractive in person and in mind, she speedily drew around her, by the fascination of her manner and the brilliancy of her wit, a host of ardent, admiring friends.

[Author's note: The most striking characteristic of American public education in the late twentieth century is the systematic removal of "the standard English classics," which have been replaced with a nearly fanatical devotion to the teaching of "multi-culturalism." An article of faith among America's teaching professionals is that all things North European must be excised from the children's education, since English culture has nothing of value to teach them. And, the very word "Nationalism" has become a term of derision, while the acronym DWEM (Dead White European Male) is used by teachers to describe formerly-important people, who MAY have had something important to say to their own generations, but are not "relevant" to modern Americans. This process began, roughly, with a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court that uttering the Lord's Prayer in public schools is unconstitutional. Future Cogswell descendants will have to judge the results of these wildly-successful (government-backed) efforts to rewrite America's traditional values.]

Emerson's neighbor was Henry David Thoreau, the American architect of Civil Disobedience. In, perhaps, his most famous essay, "Self-Reliance," Emerson prophetically warns every man to trust himself against a society that "everywhere is in conspiracy against the manhood of every one of its members." Emerson was the most important figure of the American Romantic period. Linzee of the British Navy, who, at the battle of Bunker Hill and burning of Charlestown, commanded the British Sloop of War "Falcon," which lay in Charles River and bombarded the troops under Col. Prescott on Bunker Hill. The sword which Capt. Linzee wore on that occasion descended to his granddaughter, and, upon her marriage, to William H. Prescott. The sword that Col. David Cogswell was a Master Mason and builder. Beginning at an early age, he was involved in many real estate transactions, an enterprise that continued throughout his life. After moving to Syracuse in 1842, his projects included the First Presbyterian Church, a number of business blocks, the Globe Hotel (still in use in 1996), and many private homes, some of which still survive. David and Mary Cogswell were instrumental in the establishment in 1843 of "Community Place," a utopian community near Skaneateles, New York. Both were members of the committee that raised the necessary funds to purchase land for the community. Upon its purchase, title was conveyed to seven communtiy trustees, including David Cogswell, and the Rev. Samuel J. May, who became minister of the Unitarian Church in Syracuse and was a leading anti-slavery figure. Rev. May's sister, Abigail, married A. Bronson Alcott, uncle of Louisa May Alcott.
In the beginning, the community flourished and many visitors were favorably impressed by its early success, including Robert Owen the English reformer and founder of New Harmony, Indiana. Later, dissension within the membership, and the refusal of the New York State Legislature to allow incorporation of the community, brought about its demise in 1846.
In December 1861, Mr. Cogswell was appointed by the U.S. Navy as a Master Builder to supervise the erection of government buildings at Port Royal, South Carolina, which had been captured by Union naval forces, under Admiral Samuel F. DuPont early in the War Between the States. Mr. Cogswell also established at Hilton Head a store, which he maintained until the end of the war

Buried in Oakwood-Morningside Cem., Syracuse, N.Y. Mrs. Cogswell had accompanied her husband to Port Royal, but the climate did not agree with her and she suffered from dysentery. Deciding to return north, the couple sailed for New York aboard the Empire City. Her condition worsened, and Mrs. Cogswell died soon after returning to New York.
Mary Barnes (Barns in England) was one of seven children. A younger sister, Sarah Ann, married Henry Igglesden, founder of a major newspaper, The Kentish Express. Their son, Charles, who later was that newspaper's editor, became a prominent author, cricketeer, tennis player, and chess player, and was knighted by King George V in 1928. Another sister, Catherine, married George Button of Tenterden, and their youngest son, Herbert, married Mabel [2364] Cogswell.
James Barns, Mary's older brother, was born in Stone-in-Oxney, Kent. He was a cabinetmaker and became the chief police constable, collector of taxes, and fire superintendent of Tenterden. All of his seven children eventually moved to Syracuse, New York, although two returned to England after the deaths of their husbands.
The first to arrive in America was George Barnes, who at 16 accompanied his Aunt Mary and Uncle David Cogswell on their return trip from England in 1843-44. He rose to become a prominent financier and manufacturer, and one of his companies became part of the John Deere Company. George's daughter, Mary Elizabeth, married Frank H. Hiscock, who later became Chief Judge of the state's highest tribunal, the New York Court of Appeals. George's brother, James, who came to America in 1855, was an accomplished musician and church organist, and, from 1863 to 1865, operated the Hilton Head store, which was owned by his uncle, David Cogswell. George's brother, Charles became a well-regarded dentist in Syracuse. And, George's youngest sister, Mary Louisa, became the third wife of David Cogswell.

2450. Cherokee America [2450] MORGAN. Daughter of Gideon [1160] MORGAN, Col. & Mary Margaret SEVIER. Born 15 Dec 1830 in Citico Reservation, Tenn. Died 1919. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers moved to the Cherokee Nation in 1871. The Fort Gibson Post, July 27, 1905: Mrs. Cherokee A. Rogers, a noted Cherokee woman; a cousin of the Confederate General John H. Morgan, who hid at her house after his remarkable escape from Columbus Prison. She resided with her four sons in a beautiful home near the Arkansas River, about three miles from Ft. Gibson, where she has a fine farm and one of the finest dwellings in the Cherokee Nation. Mrs. Rogers is intellectual, being one of the most well-read women in these parts. She is of French Huguenot ancestry on her mother's side, and her father was a descendant of General Daniel Morgan, of Revolutionary fame, who was Irish. At the end of The War Between the States they were left almost penniless, like thousands of others in the South-land. They were true and loyal to the Southern Cause, and suffered accordingly.
On June 20, 1853, her brother-in-law gave Mrs. Rogers the three-volume Thomas Scott Family Bible, with many pages devoted to births, marriages, and deaths. She maintained the Morgan family records until her death. She wrote: Some people do not have a proper conception of the Cherokee, farmers and stock raisers, who were by far the most enlightened race of Indians and frequently intermarried with American pioneers. The Creeks and Osages roved around committing depredations on the stock and crops of others, and intermarried with negroes, which the Cherokees never did. For those reasons, we cooperated with the whites in crushing the Creek Nation in the battle of Horseshoe Bend. The regiment of Cherokees was about eight hundred strong. My father was in command, and his father-in-law, Major John Walker, was second in command. My father was wounded twice in the battle, once through the shoulder, and a wound across his left temple, eventually blinding him in that eye. Henry Clay put through a special pension for him. In those days a pension was a special honor, not a right. My father spent a good deal of time in Washington, coming to know Henry Clay, John C. Calhoun, and Daniel Webster. Also, my father had a large number of letters and papers about the disagreement between Gen. Andrew Jackson and Gen. John Coffee. They all were lost during the war. You know, we were Confederates.
[The Descendants of John Cogswell owes this great lady an enormous debt of gratitude. May all our daughters ever be so conscientious.] She married Andrew Lewis ROGERS Jr., 1849. Died 5 Mar 1875. They had the following children:

During the War Between the States, he served as First Sergeant in the Second Duryea's Zouaves. At the Second Battle of Bull Run (Manassas, Va.), Gen. Longstreet's men emerged from cover in the woods, and gunners leaped to their pieces, bowling their shots along the rows of Federals, who, up until this time, had been unaware of the danger to their flank. Torn and blasted by this terrible firepower, the 2nd and 3rd lines milled about aimlessly, bewildered, and then retreated.
South of the Warrenton Pike, two New York volunteer regiments guarded the base of a knoll, on which a six-gun Union battery was stationed. As Gen. Longstreet swept forward, these men engaged the assault. One regiment was quickly over-run, but the Second Zouaves, nattily dressed in white spats, tasseled fezzes, blue jackets, and fancy scarlet trousers, stood firm. Gen. Longstreet was repulsed, but the cost to the 490 Second Zouaves was 124 dead and 223 wounded. Having survived this terrible battle, Sgt. Cogswell was killed, 16 April 1863, while on expedition in New Orleans.

"Edward Russell Cogswell, the only survivor of Hon. Charles Northend Cogswell's family, graduated in 1864 from Harvard College, and took the degree of M.D. in 1867. He was a gentleman of large wealth and cultivated literary tastes. Dr. Cogswell did not practice his profession, but devoted himself to literary pursuits, and indulged his fondness for biographical and historical research. This volume is much indebted to him. He gave freely time, labor, and money to aid its publication." E. O. Jameson 1884
From R.W. [7967] Cogswell, 1996:
My great-grandfather, Edward Russell Cogswell, intensely disliked the write-up he received in the Jameson genealogy. He therefore had printed his own version, which he pasted into every copy of the genealogy he could find. My (altered) copy of Jameson reads:
"Edward Russell Cogswell, the only survivor of Hon. Charles Northend [1285] Cogswell's family, graduated in 1864 from Harvard College, and took the degree of M.D. in 1867. During the late war he was a Sergeant in Company F, 44th Regiment, Mass. Volunteer Militia, in service for nine months. From 1869 to 1879 he was one of the School Committee of Cambridge, and for two years he was the Health Officer of that city. Since Easter, 1866, he has been a Warden of St. Peter's Church, and one of its representatives in the Convention of the Diocese."
Edward Cogswell did, in fact, practice medicine from about 1868 until 1880. Also, after the publication of Jameson's work, Edward Cogswell became President of the Cambridge Savings Bank, Harvard Square, for a number of years.
[If these honorable gentlemen, to whom this volume is deeply indebted, are looking down upon the Cogswell Family Association's present effort, we sincerely hope to have set the record straight, to the satisfaction of all.]
Dr. Cogswell left $10,000 to St. Peter's Episcopal Church of Cambridge, $3,000 to the Cambridge Hospital, and $2,000 to the Berwick Academy at South Berwick, Maine.

From Edward Everett Cogswell, of Albion, Maine:
Augustus Cogswell was born 6 Nov 1839 in Washington, Knox County, Maine. From: "The Story of the Maine Fifteenth Regiment," by Henry A. Shorey, Sect'y and Historian, Fifteenth Regiment Association, Bridgton, Maine, 1890:
Augustus Cogswell was single at age twenty-two. He first enlisted 21 Nov 1861 for three years. Occupation: farmer. Born in Jefferson, Maine, and resided in Washington, Maine. Next of kin: Joseph Cogswell. He left the service, due to disability, 25 Feb 1863, and reinlisted at Augusta, Maine, 8 Jan 1864, for three years. He was released from duty at Pensacola, Florida, and was honorably discharged 5 July 1866 at Charleston, S.C.
NOTE: John Cogswell and his wife were born in Haverhill, Mass., and removed to Salem, Wisc., where, I presume, the children were born. Jameson does not list a "Joseph Cogswell" as a brother, uncle, or other near relative of Augustus. I do not doubt the facts given by Edward Cogswell, but I doubt that his Augustus is Rev. Jameson's [1369b].

Buried in Lower Brighton Cemetery, N.B. Occupation: Farmer. They resided in Mangerville, Sheffield, and Brighton, N.B. The birth and death dates, which do not agree with Jameson's dates, concerning Rebecca's children, were taken from the Lower Brighton Cemetery, Carlton County, N.B. "The Lower Brighton Cemetery is located beside Highway 105 on the bank of the Saint John River, 6 miles south of Hartland, and 5 miles north of Grafton, N.B. The Cemetery is on top of a high cliff or bluff on the East side of the St. John River, with a vertical drop of 130 feet to the river. The Edmunston to Woodstock line of the Canadian Pacific Railways ran between the St. John River and the foot of the cliff. Between 1910 and 1938 three rows or more of graves slid down onto the railroad track and into the river. Sometime around 1937-1939 there was a revetment built on the face of the cliff, and this stopped future slides. There are as many unmarked graves in this cemetery as there are marked ones." In some cases, the dates on the grave markers do not agree with dates found elsewhere on various documents. King George III granted Jonathan Brown 425 acres fronting on the easterly side os the Saint John River at Lower Brighton, Carleton Co., N.B., 6 Dec 1815. "The family Bible shows the children's names as corrected below, rather than as in The Cogswells in America. Someone has made an alteration in the family Bible to change the year of marriage of William Henry Cogswell and Sarah Ann Newcomb to Oct. 1, 1854 - the date given in "Andrew Newcomb and His Descendants," although the original appears to have been 1855. The dates of birth of Emma Sophia and Clayton Cathcart have also been altered to read one year earlier, but in this case, "Andrew Newcomb and His Descendants" gives the same dates as The Cogswells in America."

3738. Isabella Binney [3738] COGSWELL. Daughter of Henry Hezekiah [2036] COGSWELL, Hon. & Isabella ELLIS. Born 6 Jul 1819. Died 6 Dec 1874. Her name was for many years a household word in Halifax. To the hungry and thirsty she gave food and drink; to the worn with toil, or enfeebled by age, or saddened with affliction, or straightened in circumstances, she gave sympathy and relief. She visited the prison to counsel, to pray with, to befriend, the depraved and the criminal. Her constant attendance on the sick and dying prematurely exhausted her strength, and after fourteen nights spent in nursing a friend's family, she was in the grasp of a dangerous illness.
Prayers were offered for her recovery by every religious denomination in Halifax, but it pleased God to end the life of His faithful servant, and she was laid to rest amid the grief of the entire community. She had borne a chief part in founding the Orphans' Home, the Boys' Industrial School, the Girls' Industrial School, and the Home For The Aged. In her will it was found she had made a provision towards their maintenance after her decease. A memorial font has been placed in the church once gladdened with her presence and worship. On the base of this memorial font is this inscription:

"Erected by the people of this place in memory of the late Miss I. B. Cogswell,
Who for many years took an active interest in their spiritual welfare."

He inherited gifts of wit and satirical humor, pleasantly combined with his rare intellectual powers. He was among the contributors to the periodical press of the day, and held an able and ready pen in the combat with opponents, as well as a facile pencil for caricature, whereby the noisy pretensions of demagogues were made ridiculous, and their selfishness exposed.
He became a leading citizen of his native city, happy in his good estate, independent in all aspects of social life, conscientious in religious principles, generous to the demands of charity, and an active Warden of the Parish Church.
The immediate cause of Mr. Cogswell's death was an accident, which occurred on his return voyage from England to Halifax on board the Cunard steamship, "China." A heavy sea broke over the ship and threw him heavily across the deck, with fatal result.

Paola, Kansas

Dear Brother and sister
I have set myself this lonesome Sabbath day with a heavy heart to let you know my sad condition. Father is dead. He was taken sick on Saturday, and by Sunday morning he was speechless. He got so he could talk on Monday morning, and we thought he had taken a change for the better. He got so he could not speak about noon on Monday. He lived until Wednesday afternoon. He died very hard. His last words were, Lord, ain't it hard. He was taken with a pain in his ankle, and it worked up into his bowels. He spoke of you very often before he was taken sick. He craved to see you. He often said, I never shall see them again. I tried to comfort him all I could while he was with me, though I hope he has gone to rest. It seems to me like I have buried the last friend I had, and all my prayers are with him.

All nature seems to mourn with me for my dearest father. Even the birds of the air seem to sing lonesome songs since he died that 10th of November. Drusilla is living in Lawrence County, Missouri. Henry is dead. He died in November. He died with consumption. He was willing to die -- [but as] and old man. Wheeler [her sister, Drusilla's husband] has left his family and gone to the Army, and four of their children have died since he left. Jed, I made you the power of attorney to sell my land for me in Kentucky, and sent it to you last August, but never have received a line from you. Our horses were stolen from us last June, and David went to try to get them back. He was taken prisoner and we don't know where he is now. Martha and Acemeth are still living with Z.P. and talk of going back to Kentucky. I am now living in Paola, though I don't know how long I will stay here. I think I will stay until spring. Please write to me.
Respectfully yours,
Amanda H. Cogswell

4037. Orasmus B. [4037] MATTESON, Hon. Son of Silas MATTESON & Hannah [2187] COGSWELL. Born 28 Aug 1805. Occupation: U.S. Congressman. He was a member of Congress, and was admitted to the practice of law in 1830. He was elected Attorney for the city of Utica in 1832 during the organization of the city's government. He was elected Representative to the Thirty-First Congress from the 20th District of New York, 7 Nov 1848. On 11 Jan 1851 he delivered his first speech in Congress, in favor of the Cheap Postage Bill, which passed with some amendments.

[Future readers may be interested in knowing that in 1995, within weeks after it was revealed that whole tractor-trailer loads of U.S. Mail had been deliberately destroyed by postal workers, Congress gave the U.S. Postal Service a 14% increase in the price of the first-class stamp. The Consumer Price Index, used to measure inflation of the economy, was about 2% that same year. Many current jokes are based upon the popular epithet, "Lost in the mail," and the phenomenal growth in the use of facsimile machines and E (electronic) Mail may be directly attributed to the truly horrible "service" being delivered by the U.S.P.S. under the present Postmaster, who was appointed only after promising to "Run the Post Office like a business."]

On 7 Aug 1856 Congressman Matteson delivered a speech upon The Presidential Question and Kansas Affairs. His constituents invited him to a Public Reception in recognition of his noble service to "Free speech, Free soil, and Free men."

When he was first nominated for Congress the Democratic party had a 1,400-voter majority in his district. When he retired from office the Republicans had a majority of 3,500 voters. At the Golden Anniversary celebration of the city of Utica, 1 Mar 1882, he was the only survivor of the original city officials of 1832.
He married Mary A. HURLBURT, 17 May 1830. The Mountain Home, to which the family retired in the summer months, was a villa in the Adirondacks. The estate embraced three thousand acres, covering almost an entire mountain, on the summit of which is Lake Milmurt. This lake is the only known instance of so large a lake in America holding only brook trout and no other kind of fish. This also was the famous fishing grounds of President Chester Arthur, a frequent visitor.
Congressman Orasmus and Mary (Hurlburt) Matteson had the following children:

5816 i. Henry Clay [5816] MATTESON

4057. Henry Daniel [4057] COGSWELL. Son of George Washington [2194] COGSWELL & Polly DIMMICK.
Born 3 Mar 1820 in Tolland, Conn. Died 10 Jul in San Francisco, Calif. His mother died when he was eight years old. His father soon after removed to New York, leaving Henry in the care of his grandparents. They died soon thereafter, leaving Henry thrown upon the world to care for himself. He found employment in a cotton factory, and by his little earnings paid his way through school. By age eighteen he had acquired sufficient education to teach in a common school district.
Later, he studied dentistry in Providence, R.I., and practiced dentistry in Pawtucket, and afterward, in 1847, opened an office in Providence, R.I. When gold was discovered in California, Dr. Cogswell was among the first to embark for the gold region. He sailed 9 May 1849, taking along quite a stock of merchandise. Upon his arrival he sold his goods, and soon was established in the practice of his profession in San Francisco. Mrs. Cogswell joined him in 1851.
The next thirty years devoted to his profession, and to his business, placed Dr. Cogswell among the millionaires of the Pacific Coast. In 1871 Mr. & Mrs. Cogswell visited Europe, and spent four years traveling in foreign lands. Upon their return, Dr. Cogswell began distributing large gifts in the form of endowments for permanent institutions. He founded the Dental College of San Francisco, and conveyed it in trust to the Regents of the State University of California. He established also the Cogswell Chair of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy in the State University, and The Cogswell Relief Fund for the aid of students needing assistance. Then, as a matter of public beneficence, and to promote temperance, he paid to have erected, in many large cities, elaborate and highly ornamental Public Drinking Fountains of bronze and granite. Thirty-one of these fountains were distributed. The Fountain erected in Washington, D.C. was accepted by joint resolution of Congress, 6 July 1882, and erected in 1884 on the corner of Seventh Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. It was inscribed: "Esto Perpetua to the American Union."
[The present Historian, immediately descended from a particularly heavy-drinking Cogswell, remembers with some amusement having visited the Cogswell Temperance Fountain in Washington, D.C., across the street from the U.S. Archives, on a number of occasions.]
Dr. Cogswell, by a donation of $35,000, founded The Cogswell Philanthropic Society, and established its Annual Course of Lectures. He also erected the imposing Mausoleum To The Worthy Dead within the grounds of the Mountain View

Cemetery, Oakland, California. It was estimated that at least four hundred tons of cut granite were used in its construction. The polished shaft rose sixty feet from the base, and its sides were embellished with tablets on which were recorded the NAMES of the HONORED DEAD. On the corners of the pedestal were four colossal statues of marble, sculptured in Italy, representing Faith, Hope, Charity, and Temperance. The grounds on which this monumental structure was erected contained ten thousand square feet, enclosed by polished granite. Dr. Cogswell, whose boyhood was penniless and homeless, was known for his beneficence across the continent.
While Dr. Cogswell lived - and controlled a huge fortune, much of which he bestowed upon others - he was described by the press as "an eccentric philanthropist." Following his death, and the distribution of his huge fortune, the pundits' tunes changed somewhat. "He will be remembered chiefly by the drinking fountains which he presented to many cities. Later most of them were condemned as public eyesores." The high moral tone of the 1880s language used to offer, and to accept, these Temperance statues stands in marked contrast to early twentieth century language used to reject them. Although the free water (and the included temperance lecture) was rejected by many, the gift of the Cogswell Polytechnical College remains an enduring monument to Dr. Cogswell's generosity. This school was the first technical school west of St. Louis. Organized 19 March 1887, instruction began in the fall of 1888. The revenue from Dr. & Mrs. Cogswell's endowment was sufficient to operate the school without tuitional cost to its students, and offered two-year courses to prepare students for leadership and provide a thorough groundwork in engineering fundamentals and the skilled crafts.

Dr. Cogswell married Caroline E. RICHARDS, daughter of Reuel RICHARDS & Laura PAINE, 7 Dec 1846.
Born 19 Feb 1822 in Providence, R.I.

In May, 1858, he led a party prospecting for gold through the valley of the Yosemite, along the river Tuolumne; and to him belongs the honor of discovering, while on that expedition, the famous grove of the Big Trees in that region. Letter from Charles W. Cogswell:
"West Norfolk
Aug 26, 1890
Dear Children

After so many years no doubt you will be surprised to receive a letter from you father. You need not, for I have tried to find your address that I might write you. A friend of mine here takes the Roxbury, and through its columns I see that the Misses Mabel and Georgie Cogswell were visiting at Mr. Caleb Reynolds and hastened to write you, but my letter was returned uncalled for. You do not know how much pleasure it gives me to write to you even if I do not receive a reply. It seems hard to have been separated from you all these years, but so it has been, and I hope God has been with you and looked after if I could not. I wrote a letter to you some years ago, but never received a reply and thought very likely you did not care to hear from me. I would very much like to see you my children, and if you wish it will before long if I get an answer from this and you wish it I will. I have been up home and just got back, had a nice visit. Your Grand Ma and Grand Pa are getting old, but have good health. Eddie has got to be a big man and a very nice young fellow too. They all would very much like to see you. If I hear from you have a great deal to say to you, and hope you will deem it worth of an answer. With love to you both hoping to hear from you soon, believe me, as ever, your Father thou are

Thou canst forgotten be
While memory lives within

I will remember you"

Mr. William James Wood, Jr., of Stephens City, Virginia, has accumulated a substantial body of data strongly suggesting the father-son relationship between Charles Wesley Cogswell and James Thompson Cogswell. Although positive proof of the line has not yet been uncovered, the evidence that Charles is indeed the son of James is very persuasive.

Charles first married Frances Julana SHOEMAKER, daughter of Martin Haner SHOEMAKER & Louisa RIVENBURG, 28 Aug 1869 in Great Barrington, Mass. Born 28 Apr 1849 in Little West Kill, Greene Co., N.Y. These diaries came to his grandson, Dr. Howard Lyman [7626] Cogswell, who transcribed them onto computer disks during the 1990's. By 1868 Gideon Lyman Cogswell and his second wife, Betsey Blakslee, were living on the 98-acre farm about one mile SSE of Auburn 4 Corners, Pa., which first had been settled by his father, Julius Cogswell. In 1884, he sold the farm to his foster son, Lyman Bert Luce, and Mr. Cogswell and his third wife, Mary Elizabeth Cornwell, settled on the much smaller farm near Lynn, where their two children were born.

He first married Emily S. PHILLIPS, daughter of Nathan PHILLIPS & Nancy TOWNSEND, 25 Jun 1854 in Lynn, Pa. Born 28 Mar 1834 in Springville, Pa. Died 22 Apr 1855 in Auburn Four Corners, Pa. They resided in Auburn Four Corners, Pa.

Died 12 Dec 1932 in South Dayton, N.Y. After her brother, Charles, died in 1882, Elizabeth Cornwell was the only surviving child of Sylvester Cornwell, who owned at least two residences in Norwich, N.Y. His wife, Elizabeth's mother, had died in 1882, also. This family was acquainted with Dr. Niram and Caroline Cogswell of Silvara, Pa, in whose home Elizabeth first met Niram's cousin, Gideon Lyman Cogswell, who had been a widower for over two years. G. L. Cogswell owned a 98-acre farm that was too large for him to operate by himself, even with the help of his foster son, Lyman Bert Luce, then in his late teens. Mr. Luce, at age twenty, was married, and the ancestral Cogswell farm was sold to him.

Mr. Cogswell then bought a 25-acre farm south of Lynn, and proceeded to repair and improve the house before his marriage to Elizabeth. After the death of Gideon, Elizabeth continued to live in the Lynn house for at least 8 or 9 years, and sent both her children to the Bloomsburg State Normal School (College), where they were trained to be teachers. In her later years she lived with her daughter, Bessie, and husband Rev. Palmer Taylor, but frequently spent time with her son Irwin's family on the 98-acre farm that her husband had sold just before she married him. Gideon & Mary's children were:

4301. William Cables [4301] COGSWELL. Son of Riley [2320] COGSWELL & Nancy CABLES. Born 9 Dec 1819 in New Preston, Conn. In early life he became restive, and longed for other fields of action than the bleak hills of his native town. Accordingly he quietly packed his scanty wardrobe in a small bundle, and with only one dollar and seventeen cents in his pocket, 14 Jan 1840, he left home and bent his steps towards the setting sun. At the end of three days' journey, he found himself many miles from home, and his little funds exhausted. He stopped for lodging at a farm-house, and in the morning bargained his services with the farmer for nine months at nine dollars per month. After fullfilling this term of service, without a single day of lost time, he received his wages, and with eighty-one dollars in his purse felt himself financially independent.

He next turned to good account his common-school education by teaching; this he pursued for several years. He then entered upon trade, and for twenty-eight years kept a village store. In 1882 he retired upon a small farm. As a highly respected citizen, he was called to fill various public offices, for twenty-two years was Postmaster, and was chosen President of the Village Corporation of Wurtsborough. In 1883 he was elected on of the Supervisors of Sullivan Co., N.Y., and re-elected without a single opposing vote in 1884.

Matthew Hawley Cogswell, with his wife and six children, arrived in Johnson County, Kansas, in the spring of 1868, from La Harpe, Illinois. As a young man, with his father, he had come overland from Vermont to La Harpe in 1842. In the spring of 1853, he joined a "Gold Rush" caravan and drove an ox team from Illinois to California. The caravan crossed the Missouri River at West Point Landing (now part of Kansas City), and Matthew took particular note of the land possibilities in the area, and to the west. Matthew and his family settled on a farm near Hector, Johnson County, Kansas, where they remained until the spring of 1882.

Letter from Matthew Hawley Cogswell to his father, mother, and brother, George, March 12, 1869:
"I think of taking a trip down to Sabett County this spring or summer, some Indian Lands there will be in market in June, and they say the finest in the state. I can sell my little place any day I say the word. So as to save myself, there is a man here waiting now for me to say the word, but I guess I best keep it til fall. There is a man over in Shawnee Town, about 7 miles from here, who has been to Arizona gold mine. He went out in Co. with nine men and found a big thing, but the Indians were so bad that they has to skudaddle and the Indians got all but two of the men. This one got off with quite a pile, but is not satisfied. He is raising a company of 100 men to go back. He proposes to outfit the whole shebang. Furnish each man with 2 revolvers, a Spencer carbine, a good horse, and teams to haul grub and clothing - furnish everything and asks no pay til the men get through and dig the money, and if they don't find it just as he represents, they may take his head off and leave him there. He has got about 75 or 80 men on his list, will start the first of April. He has several nuggets which he exhibits, is making quite a stir. John James Hutton, Scott Hildreth Graham and everybody else are all well. I wish you would all come out and see us. I know father would be better."

During the winter of 1882 Matthew met a neighbor, Mr. Moody, while on a trip to Olathe to buy groceries. Matthew mentioned that he was thinking of moving further west, and later that same day he and Mr. Moody struck a bargain on the sale of Matthew's farm. In the early spring of 1883, Matthew, with his wife and two youngest children, packed up his worldly goods in two covered wagons and removed to Reno County.
Later, the two oldest sons, and their families, joined Matthew, and settled in Reno County, four miles east of the present Pretty Prairie, Kansas. Soon thereafter, a group of Mennonites located in the same area, and Carl Clifford [7766] Cogswell described the group as: "Honest, hard-working, industrious, God-fearing people, and good neighbors." The Cogswell children were the only school pupils who did not speak German at home and on the play ground.
When Matthew died in 1918, his children returned his body to the Cemetery of the Corinth Church, to lay beside his first wife, the mother of his children. Matthew had helped build the church in 1871, and was Choir Master there for many years. Though the church had not been used for many years as a regular meeting place, it was opened for the occasion and services were held for Matthew Hawley Cogswell.

Hiram entered a livery stable alone and was mistaken for someone else. A fight took place, and Hiram was struck in the eye with a file and was blinded in the left eye. Later in his life he had one leg amputated, and still later had a stroke and spent eight years in bed, apparently incapacitated because of the absent leg.
Hiram's diary, July 5, 1889: "I went out to Hastings and traded our place in Bedford for a farm near Hastings."

4466. William Barnes [4466] COGSWELL. Son of David [2378] COGSWELL & Mary BARNES. Born 22 Sep 1834 in Oswego, N.Y. Died 7 Jun 1921 in New York, N.Y. Buried in Woodlawn Cem., N.Y., N.Y. It is said one source lists his middle name as "Brown." He was a prominent engineer and industrialist of his time. His early education began in several private schools in central New York state. At the age of nine, he accompanied his parents to England to visit his mother's family. He brought back a set of drawing instruments, which led him to lessons in architecture at Syracuse. Prior to age fourteen he provided the design from which his father built the largest hotel in the city, a building which still stands. At fifteen, he worked with a railway engineering party, and this employment aroused his interest in civil engineering.
In 1850 he entered Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, New York, completing his studies in 1852. He then served a three-year apprenticeship in Lawrence, Mass., at the Lawrence Machine Shop, a major manufacturer of machinery, steam engines, locomotives, etc. While in Lawrence, at the home of the company's agent, William Moody Kimball, William met his future wife, Mary Naomi Johnson, the sister of Mr. Kimball's wife, Lucy.
After their marriage in 1856, the Cogswells removed to Syracuse, where Mr. Cogswell held several positions in the field of railway and foundry machinery. Then, in 1861, at the age of 27, he was appointed to the civilian position of Master Mechanic in the U.S. Navy, and was sent to Port Royal, South Carolina, which had been captured by Admiral Samuel F. DuPont. William Cogswell was charged with constructing and operating a floating machine shop that would make repairs upon ships engaged in the line of blockade. Admiral DuPont later wrote: "The blockade would have been a total failure without the floating machine shop." (New York Herald, April 14, 1863) Mr. Cogswell then was transferred to the Brooklyn Navy Yard and was placed in charge of all machine repairs and mechanical construction, until his departure in 1866. For several years thereafter he was engaged in various enterprises, including the construction and operation of blast furnaces, and the completion of the Clifton suspension bridge at Niagara Falls.
In 1874, Rhode Island manufacturer Roland Hazard, having purchased control of the largest lead mine in North America, sought new management for the operation, and offered the position of superintendent to Mr. Cogswell, who, by necessity, became a mining engineer for the following five years.
Then, in 1879, while attending a meeting of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, William Cogswell learned of the Solvay Process, a new method of producing soda ash (sodium carbonate), a chemical used in the production of glass, ceramics, paper, iron and steel. Mr. Cogswell recognized that the Syracuse area had all the necessary ingredients for the successful birth and growth of this industry, including raw materials, labor, and transportation connections. He sailed to Europe, secured the American franchise, and by 1884 a large plant was built and production had begun. Also in 1884, William Cogswell was awarded the honorary degree of Civil Engineer.
Solvay Process Company was to become America's largest chemical enterprise, and Syracuse was transformed into an industrial city. Mr. Cogswell, an early advocate of the eight-hour workday, remained associated with the company for the remainder of his life. In 1920 the company was the keystone in the union of the several firms that formed the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation.
William Cogswell was president of the Alumni Association of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute 1892-93.
On August 25, 1893, Mr. Cogswell's steam yacht, Feiseen, broke the world speed record during a race in New York harbor. The ship later was sold, and became a torpedo boat in the Brazilian Navy. (N.Y. Times, Aug. 27, 1893)
In 1902, Mr. Cogswell was one of the hundred "Captains of Industry" invited to meet with Prince Henry of Prussia during his visit to New York City. Other guests included Alexander Graham Bell, Thomas Edison, John D. Rockefeller, and J. Pierpont Morgan. (N.Y. Times, Feb. 7, 1902 & Saturday Evening Post, May 10, 1902). In 1911, he was elected a member of the Board of Trustees, upon which he served until his death. The bulk of his estate, $27 million, was given to Rensselaer after passing through his second wife's family. The R.P.I. Chemistry-Biology Research building, dedicated in 1972, was named the "Cogswell Laboratory" in his honor. He was a member of the American Society of Mining Engineers, manager of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and a Fellow of the Society of Chemical Industry. Mr. Cogswell built and supported the Hospital of The Good Shepherd (now University Hospital) in Syracuse, and engaged in substantial charitable works, including paying for the education of promising young men. He held a keen interest in astronomy and geology, and owned a remarkable collection of precious stones, and a large collection of paintings by Eastman Johnson, his wife's cousin.

He first married Mary Naomi JOHNSON, daughter of Reuben JOHNSON & Judith Hall CHANDLER, 31 Jan 1856 in Lawrence, Mass. Born 17 May 1832 in Boscawen, N.H. Died 28 Jul 1877 in Mine La Motte, Mo. Buried in Oakwood-Morningside Cem., Syracuse, N.Y. Mary Johnson was descended from William and Annis (Bayford) Chandler, who settled in Roxbury, Mass., in 1637. Her uncle, Philip Carrigan Johnson, was Secretary of State in Maine, and later Chief Clerk of the Bureau of Construction, Equipment and Repair, U.S. Navy. His son, Philip Jr., and his grandson, Alfred W. Johnson, both became Admirals in the U.S. Navy. Another of his sons, Jonathan Eastman Johnson, was a noted genre and portrait painter. His works may be found in nearly every major museum in America. His portraits of Grover Cleveland and Benjamin Harrison are the "official" presidential portraits. Included among his works are portraits of William B., Mary Naomi, and Mabel Cogswell.
Her nephew, William S. Kimball, removed to Rochester, N.Y., where he built the largest tobacco factory in America, and later became the vice-president of the American Tobacco Company. He acquired a large art collection, and commissioned the statue of Mercury, erected in 1881, which became the symbol of that city, and remains so today.

He graduated from Harvard in 1854, and became a prominent businessman and city councilman in Lowell, Mass. During the War Between the States, he served as a civilian in the U.S. Army Quartermaster Department. His posts included Gen. Grant's headquarters in Virginia, and in Fort Riley, Kansas, during the organization of Gen. Custer's cavalry regiment. Occupation: Commander, 2nd Kentucky Cavalry, C.S.A. This man is THE Gen. John Hunt Morgan who, with his fearless followers and daring methods, carried consternation and dismay into the ranks of his Union opponents. His 1863 raid through Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio, with a small band of select troops, is one of the most celebrated in history. Later, his escape from the Columbus Prison became one of the most remarkable stories of the War. "Union Brig. Gen. Edward H. Hobson considered his greatest feat to be the 1863 capture of Confederate Brig. Gen. John Hunt Morgan. Taken near New Lisbon, Ohio, on July 26, 1863, Gen. Morgan was hustled to the Ohio State Prison, but his stay was brief. He escaped on November 26. Eleven months after being taken prisoner, Morgan and his men captured a body of Federal troops at Cynthiana, Kentucky. Their commander was Gen. Edward H. Hobson." Civil War Curiosities, p. 192. He was promoted, February 1862, to Brigadier General, and distinguished himself during the Peninsular Campaign, at Second Bull Run, and at Antietam, where his arrival saved the day for the Confederates. The following year he fought at Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville, becoming a Corps Commander in May. A brave combat officer, Gen. Hill also had a quick temper and often quarreled with his superior officers. He led his corps through the Battle of Gettysburg and the Wilderness and Petersburg campaigns. He was killed during the last of the fighting around Petersburg, as he sought to prevent the collapse of the Confederate defense line.

When a young man he lived for several years in the West and then returned East, locating in Wendell, where for 25 years he conducted the general store and post office. His integrity in business affairs, his never-failing courtesy and his interest in community undertakings gained for him the respect of all those with whom he came in contact. Always fair in his treatment of people, considerate of their feelings and careful of speech, he enjoyed a place in the community much like the so-called Squires of early New England times. Eight years ago he retired and located with his family in Orange, making his home on Pleasant Street. Daughter of Frederick Worth [3082] COGSWELL & Hattie Maria CLARK. Born 1 Oct 1903 in Colton, S. Dak.
She was corresponding with the author in 1995. At age 91 she writes with a firm hand and lively mind.

"In 1904 my mother married Dean Nichols. I was not adopted by Dean Nichols, but I lived in the family and was called Nichols. When I was about 4 years old we moved to Vona, Colorado, with my four-week-old baby sister. We lived on the prairie with rattle snakes, jack rabbits, tumble weeds and button cactus. My mother told me that I was not the daughter of Dean Nichols. He was complaining that I did not treat him right. Mother told me that I must be extra nice to him.
Our family moved to Mountain View, California, in 1912.
I saw my brother Harold Wilbur Cogswell twice. I never saw my father, Frederick Worth Cogswell.
In 1931 I married George Thomas Smisor, and we lived in California, with a five-year interlude in Mexico City, where George worked for the U.S. Library of Congress, making a microfilm record of official state publications. This was a "vacation" for me, since we traveled to all the states of Mexico, looking for material for the project. Our home was in Mexico City, with a maid and a yellow-headed parrot named "Quetzal," who spoke to us in both Spanish and English.
We retired in Oregon in 1969. My last job was in Riverside, California, where I was a school nurse and health teacher. I have a four-year A.B. from Pacific Union College, and a three-year R.N. from nursing school in Glendale, California. I also have general Elementary Teaching credentials and a Health and Development Diploma.
Now, I am a widow, living in a condo with a flower garden. I'm a lucky old lady, expecting to celebrate my 100th birthday!
Sincerely,
Audrey L. Cogswell Smisor"

Jan 26, 1995
"My parents separated before I was born. Ada Mary Cogswell Schluter found me in 1956. She told me about the Cogswell part of me. I have a copy of The Cogswells in America. Sincerely, Audrey"
She married George Thomas SMISOR, son of Dumont Grant SMISOR & Mary Eldora THOMAS, 7 Mar 1931 in Santa Ana, Calif. Born 1 Sep 1906 in Webster City, Iowa. Died 17 Jul 1982 in Medford, Ore. Buried in Medford, Ore. George Smisor received his B.A. (English), from the University of California in 1934; M.A. (Comparative Literature) in 1936; and Bachelor of Divinity, Los Angeles Baptist Theological Seminary, 1936. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, Delta Phi Alpha, and Beta Phi Mu. He was a printer, linotype operator, school teacher, preacher, ran a micorfilm duplication service, and retired as the Acquisitions Librarian at the University of California at Riverside. Audrey Lillian Cogswell, wrote: "During the Depression I worked for the Los Angeles County government. It was cheaper to send George to school than to have him looking for a job -- when there were none." Once again, she was far ahead of the times, as the practice of wives "putting their husbands through college" became wide-spread only after WW II, when the G.I. bill prompted the explosive growth of college enrollment. One can only imagine the difference in their lives had Audrey Cogswell stoically accepted the fact of her husband standing in unemployment lines, rather than her making the necessary sacrifice to provide for his education.

He was Chief of the Cambridge fire department in the late eighteen fifties, the days of the old Cambridge race track, and was a partner with Dan Mace, owning several trotters of local fame, and a stallion. Porter's Hotel in Cambridge was at that time the rendezvous for horsemen of Boston and vicinity, the winter speeding ground being the road passing the then famous hostelry. For two winters Mr. Cogswell owned a share in Black Eagle, one of the fastest trotters on that road. Mr. Cogswell was one of the first to join the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, and became a stockholder when Readville track was constructed.
During the War Between the States, Mr. Cogswell served as Captain of the 22nd Regiment of Massachusetts, Company E, his first Lieutenant being Nelson A. Miles, now retired Lieutenant-General of the U.S. Army. This regiment was recruited by Senator Henry Wilson, passed through twenty-two battles, and lost nearly two thirds of its men at the Battle of Gettysburg. In the latter portion of the war, Mr. Cogswell served with the 4th Massachusetts Cavalry.
For many years he was engaged in the building and construction business in Boston. Standing on Washington Street today [1884] are a number of buildings erected by him, including Dr. Minot's church on Columbus Avenue. About 1885, Mr. Cogswell gave up the construction business to enter State Street, where reverses swept away an ample fortune.
His last years were occupied by racing his horses at the New England half-mile and Grand Circuits tracks, his stable of horses being in the charge of his son, Edward. He attended all the prominent meets until the very last few years of his life.
He married Leuella CHILDS, daughter of Samuel CHILDS & Nancy PENNIMAN, 28 Sep 1859 in Roxbury, Mass. Born 23 Jun 1839 in Barre, Vt. They resided in Hyde Park, Mass., and had the following children:

5285. James C. [5285] COGSWELL, Lt., C.S.A. Son of Daniel [3641] COGSWELL & Abigail NEWCOMB. Born 11 Dec 1837. He resided at Cogswell's Landing, near Vicksburg, Miss. He served in Co. "J" and Co. "I" 28th Mississippi Cavalry, Armstrong's Brigade, Jackson's Division, for four years, after enlisting as a Private with a pay rate of 40 cents per day. On 4 July 1863, he was captured at the Battle of Vicksburg, and, on 6 Nov 1863, he was sworn to parole (not to bear arms against the United States) and exchanged for a Yankee prisoner. In 1864 he was promoted from Sergeant to Second Lieutenant. Records of March and April of 1865 indicate that he either deserted or (more likely) was killed.
The Twenty-Eighth Mississippi Cavalry participated in more than seventy engagements during The War Between the States. The remnants of this gallant band of Southern Patriots, who sought nothing more than "A Government of Our Own," were finally surrendered, in May of 1865.

5288. George H. [5288] COGSWELL. Son of Isaac [3642] COGSWELL & Mary STENEX. Born 28 Jan 1828 in Burton, N.B. He married Sarah Ann BOYD, daughter of John BOYD & Ellen DEAN, 5 Nov 1858. Born 18 May 1838 in Sunbury Co., N.Y. They had the following children:

He married Margaret Jane ROBINSON, daughter of Robert ROBINSON & Eunice DOW. Born 1833. Died 1898 in Lower Brighton, N.B. Considerable confusion exists concerning the dates of birth of their children, but it is believed that the order of birth presented here is correct. They had the following children:

6786	i.	William [6786] COGSWELL
6787	ii.	James Finley [6787] COGSWELL
6788	iii.	Eunice Mariah [6788] COGSWELL

5295. Susan [5295] COGSWELL. Daughter of Elihu [3644] COGSWELL & Rebecca DICKERSON. Born 1822 in N.B. Died 27 Aug 1879 in Mattawamkeag, Maine. She married William Henry GRAY, 10 Oct 1839 in Woodstock, N.B. Born 19 Jan 1816 in N.B. Died 30 Dec 1883 in Mattawamkeag, Maine. Two of his children, Angeline and Rebecca, lived for a time at Shiloh, a religious commune in Durham, Maine, whose purpose was to prepare the world for the second coming of Christ. The commune finally exhausted all of its followers' funds and closed around 1920. Shirley Nelson published a book, "Fair, Clear and Terrible," in 1989 concerning the commune, but of the many hundreds of followers, the Cogswell sisters, who probably returned to New Brunswick, were not mentioned. William & Susan (Gray) Cogswell had the following children:

6796	i.	Rebecca Elizabeth [6796] GRAY
6797	ii.	Lavinia [6797] GRAY

5296. Douglas [5296] COGSWELL, Capt. Son of Charles C. [3645] COGSWELL & Mary Ann FLYNN. Born 16 Jul 1824 in Oromocto, N.B. Died Jun 1898 in Calais, Maine. He was Captain of a vessel, which he owned and sailed between Calais, Maine, and Boston, Mass. The 1861 Census for St. Andrew's Co., of Charlotte, N.B., page 30: Cogswell, Douglas age 37, Elizabeth 33, Albert 11, Barbara Ann 10, Sarah 8, Clarissa 6, Henriette 3, Mary Catherine 1. All the Cogswell family members were listed as: "Baptists." It appears that Jameson may have reversed the birth years for Clara (Clarissa) and Henrietta. Evidence suggests that all their daughters, except Sarah, removed to the Boston area, and, at the time of Sarah's death in 1940, three of the Cogswell girls were living in Boston.
Capt. Cogswell first married Elizabeth Ann FITZ HENRY, daughter of Thomas FITZ HENRY & Catharine MACFARLAND, 26 Oct 1848. Born 1828 in St. Patrick, N.B. Died 9 Sep 1868 in St. Andrews, N.B.

"He graduated, first in his class, with a medical degree from Lynwood College of the (then) new Northwestern University, Chicago, Ill., in 1860, and later was a surgeon in the Union Army, stationed in Keokuk, Iowa. I am engaged in writing up the memories that Dr. Cogswell's descendants have about his six daughters. My mother was Hettie Cogswell [6877], who died in 1921. Cora [6878] later married and adopted Hettie's two youngest girls. I am one of them."
Edith [8306] Hall, 1996.

He was an early settler of Rogers, Arkansas, and built the first commercial building on Main Street. After the War Between the States, Dr. Cogswell became a Railway Surgeon in Kansas and Arkansas. Some years later, he broke his hip when his horse was startled and bolted, and Dr. Cogswell had to curtail his "horse and buggy" medical practice. 5609. Harvey [5609] COGSWELL. Son of Harvey [3869] COGSWELL & Esther Susan MOUZON.
Born 11 Oct 1831 in Charleston, S.C. Died 16 Mar 1902 in Charleston, S.C. Harvey Cogswell and his brother in law, Benjamin F. Evans, organized and operated the printing firm of Evans & Cogswell. When the War Between the States came to South Carolina, Harvey Cogswell joined Company "D," S.C. Cavalry, Confederate States of America, as a Private, and served five days on active duty before it was determined by the authorities that Mr. Cogswell was far more valuable to the Southern Cause as a printer. In recognition of his contribution, his name was kept on the rolls of the Cavalry unit for the remainder of the War.
In the days leading up to secession, Evans & Cogswell Printing Company was retained as printers to the Secession Convention, and daily printed the minutes of the Convention in S.C., and printed the documents that communicated the secession to the other Southern States. The Ordinance of Secession, one of the most fateful and fatal documents in America's history, was lithographed by Evans & Cogswell.
During the War Between the States, Evans and Cogswell printed small denomination currency, Government bonds, the Soldier's Prayer Book, books on war tactics, stamps, and medical books for the Confederacy. Their company had been established in Charleston, but was moved to Columbia for protection from Gen. Sherman. Subsequently, Columbia, and the Evans & Cogswell printing plant there, was burned during the course of Gen. Sherman's infamous March to The Sea. Because of this devastating loss, the company went into bankruptcy, but was reorganized in 1866 with the addition of C. Irvin Walker, a distinguished Confederate veteran, and the company was renamed Walker, Evans & Cogswell. This company became one of the premier printing houses of the South, publishing, among other things, the Southern Christian Advocate, and Harvey Cogswell remained active in the business until his death. Also with his brother in law, Benjamin F. Evans, Harvey Cogswell built the Kalmia Cotton Mill, one of the first in the state, in Aiken County, S.C.
In the printing business, he was succeeded by his son, William Harvey Cogswell, whose children and grandchildren were actively involved in the management of the company. Harvey Cogswell's rebuilt Columbia, S.C, printing plant is listed Number One among "South Carolina's 11 most endangered sites" by The Palmetto Trust for Historic Preservation. "The Historic Confederate Printing Plant was built in 1864 to produce stocks, bonds, and currency for the Confederacy. It was burned by Gen. Sherman, but later rebuilt. It is located in the Congaree Vista, a downtown area. However, the size of the building and lack of adequate parking have impeded its rehabilitation." During the October 1996 Special Meeting and Reunion of the Cogswell Family Association, in Charleston, the Board of Directors voted to join the fierce battle being waged by the Palmetto Trust to preserve the priceless historic Cogswell Printing Plant in Columbia.
The printing firm at Charleston was owned and operated by members of the Cogswell family until 1983, when the economic climate dictated the sale of the company. The "Cogswell Building" stands today at East Bay Street, on Printers Row, in Charleston, S.C., and, although the facility no longer is used for the business of printing, it remains a monument to the life and work of Harvey Cogswell, and the source of great pride and satisfaction among his many descendants, who still serve as important leaders in numerous civic organizations in Charleston.

6316. Asa Ferris [6316] COGSWELL. Son of Matthew Hawley [4435] COGSWELL & Julia BAILEY. Born 12 Feb 1859 in La Harpe, Ill. Died 5 Nov 1942 in Colorado Springs, Colo. He retired from dentistry in 1913, and began cattle ranching, which he continued until about 1935. He wrote:

"In Kansas City, [at age 17] I spent part of my time in the J.W. Jenkins Music Store, playing the pianos, organs, and the guitar. J. W. Jenkins, who at the time was about 60 or 65 years old, heard me playing the various instruments and because I could sing, play, and talk, he hired me to go out in the country with an organ in a 'democrat wagon,' with a team and a helper, to work up sales by taking the organ into country homes and performing for the farmers and their families. I was authorized to trade for a cow, mule, horse, or anything saleable, but in order to curb any reckless tendencies on my part, Mr. Jenkins said that I had to sell these as best I could, and turn the cash over to him. It was good training and I got to be pretty good at it. Meanwhile, every time I had a chance to enter a dental office I did so, and thus procured ideas, knowledge, and experience from the practicing dentists who very kindly demonstrated their methods. Among the acquaintances I made was Jim Gillespie, a young marble-cutter at one of the Haldeman Marble Works where I went with DeLos Haldeman. Gillespie had a greater smattering of dentistry than I had, and I soaked up quite a lot of it, and taught him what I had learned in return. So together, Jim Gillespie and I [age 19] opened our first dental office at Lees Summit, Missouri. We 'practiced' a few months on the people and my cases turned out so well that I got the big-head and thought I knew more than he did, then I severed connections with him and opened up my own office in Independence.

"Deciding that my Independence practice was not enough to keep me busy and prosperous, in 1881 I opened an office in Mound City, Kansas, and it was while I was at Mound City that I pulled a tooth for Jesse James, who came into my office with a burley fellow who stood right there by the chair while I did it. That was only a year or so before he was shot."

Later, Dr. Cogswell moved to Chicago, to market his invention, the Cogswell crown.

He married Arobine Hilton HALDEMAN, daughter of Adna Coleman HALDEMAN & Melissa Christina FRISBEY, 21 Dec 1880 in Independence, Mo. Born 29 Sep 1861 in Bloomington, Ill. Died 22 Feb 1944 in Colorado Springs, Colo. She wrote: "When Father and Mother were first married, a very interesting event occurred. I think it must have been about 1854, because my eldest brother Martin was three years old. One day Father came home for dinner and brought, as an unexpected guest, a man who had come to his place of business to see him, a well-known lawyer from Springfield, who was becoming quite prominent in politics, Abraham Lincoln.

"I remember that I came home from school to find my father and mother standing out in front of the house shading their eyes and looking into the sky. They had heard that the grasshoppers were on their way, and now we could see millions of them coming, dimming the sun and settling down on everything, trees, plants, and buildings. They ate everything that had not already been harvested - it was in September, I think - and laid their eggs and disappeared. No one realized what was in store for them next spring. The grasshoppers hatched out by the billions, and left no spear of green anywhere. They ate clothing, curtains - even the handles of pitch forks so that they had to be sand-papered smooth. They ate the leaves of the walnut trees as a last resort, and my brothers would climb up in these trees when all other feed was gone, and saw off big limbs so the cattle could eat the leaves. Soon the hoppers had eaten even those, and in late June they flew away, to the great joy of everyone.
"Times were unbelievably hard as there was no money in the country and no crops. The father of a Blue Springs family, which was almost destitute, came to a merchant and asked to buy a sack of flour on credit. The merchant refused. In spite of this the man just picked up the sack of flour and drove home with it. An officer was immediately sent out to arrest him, and when he got there he found the wife mixing the flour into a paste with water, and the children were so hungry they were eating it raw. The officer went back to the merchant and said, 'If you want that man, go get him yourself. I will not!'"

6317. Ruby Ellen [6317] COGSWELL. Daughter of Matthew Hawley [4435] COGSWELL & Julia BAILEY. Born 8 Jul 1866 in La Harpe, Ill. Died 16 May 1945. Having been raised by her father and four older brothers, Ruby became a shrewd business woman, and was named executrix of Matthew Hawley Cogswell's estate. She served as Democratic committee woman in the first campaign of Franklin Roosevelt. She married James Hugh SCHOOLEY, 1900. Born 1865. Died 1948 in Hutchinson, Kans. James Schooley "converted" his wife, Ruby Cogswell, from the traditional Republican politics of the Cogswell family, to the Democratic Party. Her father was said to have been "outraged by this desertion."

6318. George Kirkpatrick [6318] COGSWELL. Son of Matthew Hawley [4435] COGSWELL & Julia BAILEY. Born 24 Jun 1867 in La Harpe, Ill. Died 7 Oct 1949 in Hutchinson, Kans. He married Eliza Jane O'LEARY, daughter of Thomas J. O'LEARY, Capt., 6 Mar 1888 in Reno Co., Kans. Born 9 Jan 1870 in Reno Co., Kans. Her father wrote the following letter soon after his arrival from Ohio, via covered wagon, to Reno County, Kansas.
"To the Editor of the Paper at Milan, Ohio - overland.
We left Milan, Ohio, June 15, 1887, took up our line of March, and the same evening camped at the DeLamatre mansion, in Oxford, left there next morning and arrived at Attica, Senaca County, Ohio, in time for dinner. Visited with friends there until June 20, at which time we again took up our line of march, and the next Saturday night camped in the Hoosier state. We found a nice grove and remained there until Monday morning, and all feeling well, broke camp and again took up our line of march. By the next Saturday night we expected to reach the Sucker state, but fell ten miles short. We camped in a beautiful grove near a M.E. Church, and attended Sabbath School the next day.
"Monday being the 4th of July, we got up early and gave the Hoosiers a surprise by firing our Big Guns, and numerous little ones. After the celebration we broke camp, crossed the Wabash River and took a southwesterly course, and by the next Saturday night we were twenty-five miles west of the Mississippi River. We again found good camping grounds, and went into camp to rest up until Monday morning. And, by the way, when we passed through St. Louis we replenished our cracker train, and a very good idea it was, for we found very poor foraging in Missouri.
"Now our young troops began to see a little of camp life. We could find nothing but cistern water to drink, and that very poor. The people would draw water for miles to fill up their cisterns, and this being the only water we could secure, consequence was that the Malarial Fever broke out in camp. We stopped at a small town in central Missouri and sounded the Surgeon Call. He came up to the ambulance, a very good looking old gentleman, and wanted to know who was sick. I told him the whole regiment, all but the mules. He gave us some medicine and we pursued our journey. We got a two ounce bottle of quinine, however, and after two weeks travel over rough roads, we came to Linn County, Kansas.
"We now had about two hundred miles to travel before reaching our destination, which was near Hutchinson, Reno County, Kansas. We arrived at that place the 2nd of August, pretty well tired out, but a few days rest found us ready for duty again.
"I will now endeavor to give you a description of Hutchinson. It is located on the Arkansas River ... it has prospects of being the ... of the west. It is on three different lines from the east, The Santa Fe, The Missouri Pacific and the Rock Island. Everything looks encouraging to our business men in the city, and also to the farmers in the country.

"The great packing house of Toby & Booth will be completed in about ten days, and will give the farmers a home market for their stock. The state Reformatory is located here. There have been more than one hundred business buildings put up in the last year, at a cost of from fifty to one hundred thousand dollars each.
"The place has street cars, water works, salt works, electric lights, and prohibition. We have to take our drinks from the pump. It has two daily and three weekly papers, so if any of my Erie County friends happen to stray this way, they will find me on my farm twelve miles from the city, near Castleton.
"Now Mr. Editor, a little business, and I will not worry you further. Enclosed you will find one dollar for the Journal and Local; for I am still a Democrat in principle but have been practicing Prohibition on account of my business. Please send the paper to Thomas O'Leary Castleton Reno County Kansas"

He settled in Tustin in 1882. Once established, he returned to Canada and married Janie Belcher in 1884, and they returned to California. Prescott described El Monte in 1888 as "consisting of two stores, a blacksmith shop and seven saloons. A year later, the Presbyterians erected the first church."

Prescott sold his small vineyard during a period of rapid inflation, waited for land prices to drop, and then joined with partners in purchasing about 500 acres of barley field on the east side of El Monte. Here he planted a large walnut grove, and was one of the leading walnut growers in the area. The access to his home developed into Cogswell Road, now probably the longest residential street in El Monte. Prescott Cogswell was a California State Assemblyman, a State Senator representing L.A. County, and a Los Angeles County Supervisor. He and Senator Hiram Johnson worked in support of the Progressive movement in California. Prescott planted a row of blue gum eucalyptus trees along Cogswell Road, and one of them grew to be the largest such tree in America, reaching 200 feet. The tree was cut back to 80 feet, grew back to 164 feet, and 36 feet in circumference, was cut back to 60 feet, and finally was removed by the city when curbs and gutters were installed on Cogswell Road, sometime after 1960.
He served on the local school board, was Trustee of the University of Southern California, and was President of the Los Angeles Mutual Fire Insurance Company. In honor of his long and distinguished service, the Cogswell Dam, Cogswell School, and Cogswell Road in Los Angeles County all were given his name.

Son of Isaac [5301] COGSWELL & Sarah CHAPMAN. Born 23 May 1883. Died 8 Feb 1967 in Boston, Mass. Occupation: Bus driver. Joshua Lionel Cogswell moved down to the Boston area from Baxters Harbor, Nova Scotia, where he was a merchant mariner. After the death of his wife Elva Rae, Joshua married three more times, and only his fourth wife survived him. His last three wives were widows when they married Joshua.

At age 27, Joshua Cogswell signed on as a crew member of the D.G.Steamer "Stanley." During the cruise he kept the following diary: "O.H.M.S. D.G.Stmr. Stanley Trip

From Saint John N.B. to Hudson Bay Canada. I left Saint John June 10 and arrived in Halifax N.S. June 8, 1910. We went through hurried repairs. I left June twelfth for a trip to see my mother and youngest married sister at London-derry Col. Co. Nova Scotia. I stayed over Sunday and arrived on board Tuesday evening. The Stanley was on the repair blocks and was scraped and painted.

June 25, 1910 I was busy getting my supply of provisions for a six weeks trip. I planned for provisions enough to last 3 or 4 months and still have sufficient supply left. I have a crew of our own men amounting to 47 men and 18 extra making a total of 65 men. We have with us Capt. Miles R. Nory who is leader of the party. We also have Mr. L. V. King, Dr. L. N. Marcellus, J. M. Malcolm, and Mr. Fraser, the leaders of the surveying party at Fort Churchill. Mr. Baschard and Mr. Savarra and the wife of the commanding officer, and Mrs. C. Starnes. Capt. Bartlett who was with commander Perry when he discovered the north pole is with us. He is the pilot and will also act as pilot for the D.G.S. "Earl Grey."

The party is going to survey Fort Churchill and Fort Nelson and work for nine months down to Winnepeg. They are signed up for one year. The helpers are: Andrew Cocohran, Edward DeYoung, John Sawler, Frank Seward, Sam Brenan, Alfred Naugle, Harry Gillman, Arthur Mitchell, and John Chandler. The other party is known as the Hydro-Survey. They are Capt. Miles, H.D. Posezean, Esq. C.E., who was chief mate with Perry when he discovered the north pole, L.V. King to study Hydro-graphic survey.

My supply is only some of the following:
24 lbs of corned beef
12 " " salt pork
40 cases of corned beef
20 bbls of Five Rose flour
4 lbs of pastry flour
30 " " pilot biscuit
3 weeks supply of fresh goods ammounting to $4,000 altogether.
We left for North Sidney from Halifax.

July 12, 1910 We had a pleasant trip and arrived on Sunday and loaded coal for our trip. We left North Sidney on Thursday July 7, and had a tow loaded with coal. We went the way of the Straits of Belisle on the Labrador, and met our first ice-berg on Sunday 10 a.m. We arrived at Gillik at 12 a.m. We unloaded the coal that was in the tow (Lattitude 55 deg.) We left for Ternivik, with plenty of ice-berg in our way, with empty tow at our back. I had a tooth ache all night and was up at 3 a.m. from the pain of it. I had the doctor take it out, but he never had such a job before. It is all over now.

The fog was very thick and the wind was making some funny noises as a sound of a storm, so I retreated into the saloon. I prepared for the storm and got my stewards to work. Two or three of my boys was seasick but I was only dizzy, which forced me to serve every meal in the saloon. We could not get down our food on account of the storm.
Sunday July 17, 1910 It was a fair day with ice-berg in sight and passed mountains one called "Table Mountain." It was 3,000 feet high. We stopped at the place called Hebron 1:33 p.m. I was ashore with the party and had a look at the Eskimoes. They were not as bad as I had imagined. The wolf-like dogs were very fierce. I could not understand the language of the inhabitants. I took the left hand of one of them (an indication of marriage) [looking for a ring? ed.] and she understood and they all laughed. One of them gave me a bouquet and I intend to give it to my wife. I bought a pair of sealskin. There was big mosquitoes in large numbers. There was a German missionary, a rubber factory. We left the snow covered mountains and into the sight of the ice-bergs. Lattitude 57.30

July 18, 1910 The wind was blowing northwest and a pleasant morning. It is mostly all day now, and very little night. Drift ice floated passed us as we docked at Burnwell for water supply and trade with the chief man of the village. For return we got a pair of sealskin slippers and a coat for Vera made of sealskin. I had a look at the Eskimos hut. You had to get down on all fours for 8 feet and then take the kink out of your back. It is so dirty that I cannot describe. Heap of fat, a very poor shelter, and old man laying on a skin. He had ape like features, long white hair, his skin so black that he looked like half bred with chinese and Indian blood. What a picture for dirt! A hut built 8 feet high and 8 feet long. A short woman with dirty old skins, 5 small dirty looking boys and girls with faces like charcoal, with long coarse hair, and very hidious was their looks. A candle made with sealoil burning night and day. No widows and very scanty clothing. A very barren place to live in, with only 25 eskimos to one village, and 100 or more dogs looking wolfishly. There is an endless day here. I have not seen dark for one week.

July 19, 1910 We stayed at Burwell overnight and returned to the schooner at 6 p.m. We met a schooner that was out of Halifax for a month and we were glad to take them in tow. We made 11 knots with this boat in tow. We then sighted a great mass of ice, which made the captain kind of afraid. We were lucky to have a first-class ice-breaker as our leader, for we had an easy time of going through it. We are now 3,000 miles from Saint John, N.B. Nothing but ice in sight.

July 20, 1910 Only great fields of snow and ice in our path. Mr. Fraser went on schooner in tow, and Mr. Baschard accompanied him. They both wanted a change.

July 21, 1910 We have passed 4 or 5 ice fields, and almost clear of them all. We expect to arrive at Fort Churchill in 4 days. We are pretty far down the Hudson Straits. We still have daylight at 10 p.m.

July 22, 1910 We have plenty of ice to go through, and the weather has changed to foggy. At 10:30 p.m. we can still catch a glimpse of daylight.

July 23, 1910 We have been breaking ice all day. I had layed down in my bunk when all of a sudden the ship stopped, and everything was in confusion. The "Stanley" had broken her hawser, or it had to be cut to clear her of ice. We were blowing furiously. There was so much ice that it was one hour before we found the hawser.

July 24, 1910 I would like to go to the tabernacle for it is Sunday. The weather is unmistakably beautiful. We have been heading South West and North West for a week. I am not lonesome, but I would like to be home for a day. I expect to be home in about 3 weeks. We have a doctor aboard who has two cases of blood poisoning already. One of them is in my department. It broke out on his arm and has increased rapidly. His name is Lyle McNamarra. Lyle asked the doctor to leave him some medicine when he left, but the doctor said that if he was not well when he left he would not need any. I pray to the Lord God to have mercy on his soul and his family. We are now in Hudson Bay, anchored 25 miles from Fort Churchill. The fog has been very thick, so we anchored in 27 fathom of water.

July 25, 1910 We are now 3,000 miles from Saint John, N.B. We left Halifax July 2, 1910 and have been 23 days out. At 11:35 a.m. we arrived at Fort Churchill. It is a station of about 12 houses made like a summer cottage. Two boats filled with Mounted Police to meet us. Mrs. C. Starnes was glad to meet her husband. After tea I went ashore and looked around at Fort Churchill. I met the trader of the Hudson Bay Post, and he invited the chief engineer and myself to an overnight stay at his house. We had a 4 mile walk to his house, and fighting the flies all the way. I was up early hunting duck with the chief engineer's pistol. I shot a small bird, but was sorry for my deed afterwards.

July 26, 1910 I gave the trader some food from the ship, as I had taken a liking to him. His name is A. Alston, brother of Capt. Alston of the Royal Navy. His father, Capt. A. Alston, wrote the "Book of Naval Seamanship." I received $17.50 in cash and a pair of buckskin mits and a coat of the same value and many other fancy gifts. We reached the ship at 11:30 a.m. The chief engineer bought 3 fox skins and paid $20.00 for them. I also purchased a few skins, which later I traded with Sergeant Heyton, N.W.P., a box of cigars and a box of Old Chum Smoking pipes. I was very busy, so I was unable to see the Old French Fort, built in 1748, but I see it from a distance.

July 27, 1910 I made a bargain with Commander Police Major A. Starnes. It was an exchange of goods, so I gave him 4 bbls of potatoes, 10 lbs of butter, and 1 bbl of onions for 96 bottles of English jam valued at $25.00 and 96 tins of cocoa valued at 15 cents a can. We were relieved of all passengers except Capt. R.M. Miles, L.V. King, and Capt. Bartlett. The other 16 had left. We pulled up anchor and was away in five minutes.

July 28, 1910 We sailed all night long in the direction of Fort Nelson, which is 100 miles on our way home.

July 29, 1910 The weather was a bit foggy, so we let down the anchor last night. We sighted two white whales. We all made a rush for our guns, but Capt. Dalton was the lucky one. He did not seem to do any damage to them.

July 30, 1910 We are still anchored. The weather near Fort Nelson has cleared off so that we could even see the shore. The launch left yesterday at 12:30 p.m. and is expected to arrive tonight. The launch arrived at 4:50 p.m. We arrived in Nelson Harbor at five. The passengers finished their surveying and arrived on board. Nelson is 150 miles from Fort Churchill, and is composed of 100 hounds. Once there was a great many white people in the village, but its population decreased. It was the distributing place of all traders, but Winnipeg sprung up, so the traders went to Winnipeg. Nelson is so shallow that a vessel cannot get within 17 miles of it. They have to send boats out to unload the vessel. This is where the famous York Factory is situated. We were running until 3 a.m. and once more against the great ice sheet.

July 31, 1910 At 1:30 p.m. we were still in the ice-flow. The "Stanley" is a boat for ice. She is hard to stop. We met some pretty tough ice with which we had to ram it 2 or 3 times. The ice continued all day. I am very contented to be with myself for a change. At 5:10 p.m. I was in my stateroom when I heard a fusillade of rifle shots. I arrived on deck too late to get a shot at a black and white fox. The fox did profit us by waking us up, for the days are warm.

August 1, 1910 There has been no sign of ice all day long. Blood poisoning can now resume its duty, and the Toreanfaus caterer is sick with assema. I gave him sulpher and molasses inwardly and sulpher and lard outwardly. He is improving. I expect to arrive in North Sidney in 3 weeks at the most. We may see Halifax August 20. We are running due North from Churchill and Nelson, and are expected to run into ice. We have had some pot shots at ducks, seals, porpoises, and white whales and gulls. It is our only sport. I have two rifles and one shot gun, and I'll try to sell them before we reach port.

August 2, 1910 We are still on our way to Burwell to put Capt. Bartlett aboard the "Earl Grey." We have 998 miles of travel yet from Fort Churchill. We expect to arrive at Burwell within the next 3 days. As time goes on it is continually changing to night and day by a half-hour.

August 3, 1910 About one dozen rifles have been going at one time at a single walrus. It was great sport. We shot one walrus. Capt. Miles ordered no more shooting for the rest of the day, and for two men to lower down and pick up the walrus. Just then two companions of the walrus came to the surface and hooked their tusks into him and disappeared. We heard Capt. Miles angry voice to go full speed ahead, and no more shooting. I did not shoot at the wounded animal for I had heard rumors that a wounded animal will float, but if you kill it it will sink. I played the Bean-Bag game and lost the first throw.

August 4, 1910 We are within 60 miles of Burwell. We anchored at Burwell at 8:00 p.m. We may have to wait here until August 12 for the "Earl Grey." This is the place where I got the white Fox and Very small sealskin coat. It has grown hard and dry, and the natives will have to remedy it.

August 8, 1910 I have not been feeling very well for a week, and I don't know what is the matter. The "Earl Grey" arrived tonight, and this revived me. It was piloted by Capt. Bartlett, brother to the man who piloted all the way. We are to take him with us, and our pilot goes to the "Earl Grey." They leave at 4:00 a.m. for Halifax. This would take five days of steady sailing. I was ashore last night and got some slippers and white fox for the family at home.

August 9, 1910 We have been sailing all day long at the rate of 11 1/2 miles per hour. Most of my department has seasickness. I am reading a book titled, "Westward Ho."

August 10, 1910 We have just passed a big iceberg and there are signs of a storm approaching. My department is on the Port side and there is a great danger of striking icebergs. The men jokingly say that they will have icebergs for tea. I hope everything will turn out well on the last lap of our journey. Everything is well up to our arrival in North Sidney."

In 1909 Frank and Ella Cogswell and their infant son arrived in Twin Falls, Idaho, where they purchased a home at 155 10th Avenue East. In 1914 they purchased a farm south of Kimberly, and later sold it in 1917. They took an extended tour of the west, and purchased a ranch near Coaldale, Alberta, Canada, and another ranch in California. In 1918 they purchased a large white apartment house known then as the "Cogswell Apartments." The same year, Frank opened the first drive-through service station, Cogswell Oil, in Twin Falls. In March, 1919, they purchased property on Lincoln Street and built a home on the property later, in 1927. In 1925 they purchased property in the 400 block of Main Avenue and moved the business there. Their son had joined the business by then. In 1928 the business was incorporated as the Cogswell Lind Oil Company, and operated until 1934. Frank was a dealer for Kelly Springfield Tires, did vulcanizing, and rebuilt batteries.
In 1938 they formed a trucking company, incorporated as "Cogswell Freight Lines," which they sold in 1943.
On August 6, 1940, someone threw a match near a tanker truck that was unloading fuel in front of the station on Main Avenue, and a fire erupted and burned through the hose. The City Fire Department managed to wash the fire away from the truck, and Frank's son jumped into the cab and drove the truck across the street. Fuel still was flowing from the truck, and the fire caught up with the leaking fuel. Firemen and a Street Department worker were able to get a wrench on the fuel valve and stop the flow, but one of them suffered wrist burns and lost his eyebrows and lashes. Fire Chief Bartlett offered high praise for the men who averted a disaster, had the flaming fuel continued pouring out onto the street and set the whole town on fire. After the Freight Line and service station were sold, Oliver Dale Cogswell operated Cogswell Novelty, which leased juke boxes and amusement machines. His son, Ronald, worked with him, and now owns and operates Ron's Upholstery at 319 Main Avenue East, along with his own son, Dennis, and Dennis' wife, Patricia.

In 1901 Mr. Cogswell, of Atlanta, Georgia, found himself gazing out a train window at the ruins of a small Alabama town, actually a village, of about 40 inhabitants. Pell City in 1901 was much like a ghost town. Nearly all the buildings had been burned. Many individuals owned the properties, including the Hercules Iron Company, for which a young lawyer named Lewis J. Brandies (future Supreme Court Justice) was trustee. Mrs. Cogswell purchased through Justice Brandies 50 acres from the Hercules Company. Later, Mr. Cogswell paid $3,000 for the principle acreage on which Pell City is now built. Three railroads met in Pell City and made this an ideal transportation hub for heavy industry. Mr. Cogswell was a founder of the Bank of St. Clair, organized with Mr. Cogswell as President. In 1912, the bank changed its name to First National, and later, to Union State Bank. Mr. Cogswell was Chairman of the Board. He was elected commissioner (eight years) and mayor (three terms) of Pell City, and encouraged the organization and development of every church constructed in Pell City, by donating a building site to help encourage their growth. The same is true of the schools built under his administration. He was a Mason, and the Pell City Lodge bears his name.

Carl Clifford Cogswell wrote: "My father married early in 1888, and started farming with an old wagon, two mules weighing less than 750 pounds each, and a walking plow. He borrowed or exchanged work for the other implements required for the first few years. By 1896, he owned and worked a yoke of oxen. I recall very well going to Sunday School in the wagon, and the occasional parties at different homes in the community on Sunday afternoons. I well remember the first "spring" wagon we got in 1898, the first "fringe-topped" surrey in 1901, and the first automobile, a single cylinder Cadillac in 1908.
In 1903, a man named "Scotty the Cattle King" began coming from Kansas City to Hutchinson, by train and buggy, to hire men for the cattle drive. He would hire local men and boys from Arlington, Langdon, Turon, Preston, and Medicine Lodge to help round up cattle for shipment from the three railroad stations. My Strawberry Roan pony, Brigham, and I had quite a reputation for our ability, though I was the youngest driver in the trip. A covered wagon, the "Chuck Wagon," with a driver, and four of us on horseback would go out on the prairie in pairs to round up a few cattle here and a few there, and assemble them at a pre-arranged place for the final drive to the railroad. The drive took about three weeks, and that was my first trip that far from home, the longest I had ever taken. Truly, I have been permitted to see, and be a part of, the development of our country, a development that cannot be duplicated in the future -- unless there should be pioneering on another planet."
He was a self-taught speaker without the benefit of a high school education. Through correspondence courses, he learned enough about grammar and expression to become one of the most sought-after speakers of his time. One of his proudest accomplishments was his proposal to provide an acceptable extension of power to expedite rural electricity at a reasonable rate. His proposal was presented at the National Grange meeting in Sacramento, California, in 1935. This was passed by Congress in 1936.

Helen Cogswell Trostel wrote: "Carl C. Cogswell, of Topeka, has led an interesting life of many accomplishments. He is an outstanding farmer and cattleman, has been the head of the Kansas State Grange for several years, and has been a member of the state tax commission. He began collecting data for a genealogical history of the Cogswell family in 1935, intending to follow to the present all the lines included in Jameson's history of The Cogswells in America. This task took more time than he was able to give to it, and he generously turned over [to Helen Cogswell Trostel] all his material."

Carl Clifford Cogswell was the Editor of the Kansas Rural School Journal, and the following was written about him: "Your Editor, C.C. Cogswell is well known in agricultural circles, not only in Kansas but over the nation. He holds an enviable record of service in the Grange, as a leader, a speaker and a writer. For more than a quarter of a century he has devoted much of his time to the welfare of rural Kansas and the nation. For 24 years he served as one of the principle Officers of the State Grange and a deputy Lecturer of the National Grange. For 18 years he served as Master of the State Grange and as Editor in Chief of its State publication. He served for fifteen years as a member of a rural school Board in Kingman County and each of his four sons received all or part of their elementary schooling in that rural school. His loyalty to rural life and his sincere efforts to make it more enjoyable and profitable are well known throughout the state and elsewhere."

CARL'S COGS - For many years the writer (C.C. Cogswell) has conducted a column under the above caption. In the column he has consistently attempted to promote thought, rather than to influence it. Cogs are small projections upon the rim of a wheel, or plane, which, when in mesh with other cogs, transmit power from its place of origin to the place where the work is to be done. These "mental cogs" are intended to help transmit the power of public opinion to our seats of government, where it is much needed at this time. (Some amazingly prophetic remarks from the pen of Carl Clifford Cogswell):

"We have little respect for any public official who attempts to cloud any public issue by the use of half truths, in a misleading manner, and with the intent of confusing his listeners or readers. The attack on our rural elementary schools has all the earmarks of an organized plan to nationalize our school system. The goal of education is to teach us how to think, rather than what to think; to improve the ability of our minds to reason, rather than to load them with the memory and the thoughts of others."

C.C. Cogswell ran for elective office once. In 1932 he threw his hat in the ring unsuccessfully for state senator on the Republican ticket. In 1938 he was urged to run for Governor of Kansas, but declined the nomination. After his retirement Mr. Cogswell commuted nearly every day to his 500 acre farm near Silver Lake, where he bred and trained registered horses. He enjoyed standing on the sandy loam of his farm, looking out over the rolling hills, where evidence is still visible that the Oregon Trail passed there.

Occupation Farmer. James London at one time worked during the winter in a mill, and would walk home, a distance of thirty miles, occasionally crawling on hands and knees to keep from falling asleep and freezing to death, to see his family late on Saturday nights. In 1919 he bought the farm of Frank Nixon, at Lower Brighton. In the fall the men would go into the woods to cut trees, and they stayed in camp until Christmas time. They would haul the logs to the banks of the St. John River, to be released and float down river in the spring. James London was considered tops among the workmen at the log drive, jumping from log to log to break up jams, even though he could not swim. In the winter the men would cut ice from the St. John River, haul it up with horse and sled, and store it in the "ice house." Each cake of ice was covered with sawdust for insulation, and the ice for the ice box - and for home made ice cream - lasted all summer. He was known to his friends and family members as Frazer. From Country Weekly, Serving Southwest Oregon, 25 Sep 1985:

The 85-year-old Mayor is sitting in the living room of his mobile home with his aunt, Nell McClellan, also 85, who said, "I moved here from California 11 years ago, and I'd never go back." Cogswell, who served as Mayor of Gold Hill "around 1945," has been a resident of the city for 43 years. "I used to be a Republican," he notes, but Hoover showed me the light."

"The population wasn't much over 400 when I moved here, but otherwise things are pretty much the same. There haven't ever been many murders here - just a few heart attacks." Cogswell remembers Second Avenue when it was the main highway north, before Interstate 5 was built. "I owned the Gold Hill mobile park and store on Second Avenue for 30 years, and there was so much traffic in those days, people couldn't get across the street to shop in my store. Gold Hill's a lot quieter now. When they moved the highway, I couldn't go to sleep for two or three weeks. It was too quiet."

A photo of Gideon Cogswell, John's great-grandfather, who was born in 1805, scowls down from the living room wall. The Cogswell family first came to America 350 years ago, and Cogswell says he's traced his ancestors all the way back to the time of Eric the Red. "Gold Hill is a great place to raise kids, if they don't drown in the river. My daughter waited until she had kids of her own before she told me that she and her friends used to go up and down the river in lettuce crates."

Cogswell still attends most town meetings. "I watch them," he says, referring to Gold Hill politicians. He shared the general opposition to the sales tax amendment that was defeated last week. "I remember I voted for it when I still lived in California," he says. "The people pushing for it were a damn bunch of liars. They said it wouldn't exceed one half of one percent, and that it would do away with all property taxes. Well, just look at it now -- six and a half to seven percent, and still going up." [Note Mr. Cogswell's party switch FROM Republican??? Ed.]

Cogswell, a native of Rockford, Washington, was raised on a wheat ranch, and in Walla Walla. "I moved to Oakland in '21 or '22, and worked for the Associated Oil Company for seven years, and for the Prudential Insurance Company for 18," he says. Cogswell was a promoter of the Chamber of Commerce, and was a member of the Odd Fellows, but dropped out when his wife, Edna, an artist, became ill. Cogswell retired at the age of 82.

Cogswell and McClellan winter in the desert, 70 miles southeast of Death Valley. "I have a motor home here, and we drive it down," Nell said. "It takes us two and a half days to get down to the desert. We hurried all our lives, but we don't hurry any more." And what about Gold Hill? What does Cogswell see in its future? "Death and taxes," he says with a smile.

He married Edna Joy LOGAN, daughter of David John LOGAN & Maude BURTON, 3 Nov 1922 in Oakland, Calif. Born 1 Aug 1904 in Lafayette, Ind. Died 10 Jan 1969 in Medford, Ore. Buried in Hillcrest Memorial Park, Medford, Ore. They had the following child:

Then, snow was deep and the ground was frozen, so the body had to be kept for a short time, and Mr. Lathrop's maternal grandfather, Jonathan Bunnell, gave them a field beside the creek for a cemetery. Across the road from the cemetery is a huge meadow, which Bunnells worked with a walking plow, and frequently uncovered ancient Indian artifacts. The Indians, many hundreds of years earlier, had built their villages several miles upstream on the Susquehanna River, which regularly floods in the spring. The Indian's preferred sites were those that sloped toward the south, beside small running brooks, one of which borders the east side of the Bunnell family cemetery. Alice remembers that in the 1950s a pond was dug on the property adjoining the Bunnell Cemetery, on the north side, and among the ancient relics uncovered was a stone mortar and pestle.

After the Depression, Herbert, Dorthy, and their son, Keith, resettled in Kansas, where Herbert worked in construction. In 1957, Herbert, Dorothy, Keith and Carolyn moved to Colorado. Herbert was the construction superintendant on the job of remodeling of the governor's office in the State Capitol Building in 1958. During this time, he became acquainted with Governor Steve McNichols and other state officials, and this association led to Herbert's position with the state, developing a Preventive Maintenance Program for all state buildings. He later became Buildings Manager for the entire State Capitol Complex. Under his direction, the State Capitol's dome became gold again, the wood was reconditioned, and the marble and brass cleaned to reveal their original colors. Tours were then made available to the people of Colorado and tourists. Herbert's dedication earned him the title: "Mr. Capitol." He was the head of this project until his retirement in 1973. Occupation: Blueprint machine operator. Violet and Donald lived with his parents for the first few months after their marriage and then bought their own home on Pucker Street, Victoria Corner, from Philip Clark. Donald borrowed $50 from his father, and his father backed a note at the bank for the $200 balance. The mortgage payments on their $250 home were $50 a year plus interest.
Dr. McIntosh owned the neighboring farm, and Donald worked for him and other local farmers. During the Depression not only was money scarce, work was scarce, and during that first winter food was scarce for Donald and Violet. The following summer Violet and Donald grew many vegetables, raised a pig, and Donald shot a deer, which they stored for the next winter. They did not own the farm, but only the house, the land it was built upon and a small vegetable garden.
Violet had beautiful flowers around their home - golden glow on the west side, nasturtiums, pansies and roses in front, and scarlet runner beans on the east side. Each summer Violet and her daughter gathered red and white clovers in the fields and added rose petals, which they boiled and strained and then added sugar. The result was a delicious honey. They picked wild strawberries in the community fields, and raspberries from the rock piles and in the nearby woods. In the spring they gathered Fiddleheads along the banks of the St. John River. Also, they gathered spruce gum, which oozed from spruce trees and was free to those willing to climb the trees with a jackknife to prompt the flow.
Violet has an old treadle sewing machine, and on this machine she sewed clothes for herself and Etta, often from hand-me-down clothes given her. Violet embroidered, and her needlework frequently was done on flour bags, which the ladies of that period would bleach to remove the printing. Then, they were used for pillow cases, table cloths, dresser runners, or cup towels. Violet also made quilts, piecing the top in various designs using scraps of material left over from making dresses or aprons. When the quilt was ready for quilting the neighbors would come and quilt all afternoon, and would then stay for supper.
Of course, there was no washing "machine" in those frugal times, and Violet has a clothes boiler, which is a large metal container that fits over two burners of the wood stove. Monday was wash day when the boiler was filled with water, heated on the wood stove, and white clothes were put in first and stirred with a wooden stick or an old broom handle. Then, the clothes were fished out of the boiler and transferred to the galvanized wash tub and scrubbed on a washboard, originally metal but later made of glass. A hard cake of yellow "surprise" soap was then used on the soiled clothing before rinsing and hanging to dry. Violet made soap from ashes, well water, Gillets Lye and fat drippings saved from the infrequent meats. In the summer some of the clothes were spread upon the tall grass to benefit from free "sun bleach." Shirts, dresses and table cloths were starched with white and blue chunks of starch added to the boiling water and cooked until thick. The clothes were dipped in the brew, wrung out by hand and put out on the clothes line to dry. When dry, the clothes were sprinkled with water, rolled up and allowed to sit a few hours before ironing. Violet had three irons, which were rotated on the wood stove, and a single handle for them all.
From the account provided by her daughter, Violet's life of hard work and dedication to the well-being of her family provides an excellent account of the Depression era, and proof positive of the adage concerning: "Behind every successful man ..."
She married Donald Somers HAYWOOD, son of William J. HAYWOOD & Lula Angie SOMERS, 7 Mar 1928 in Hartland, N.B. Born 2 Jun 1911 in Victoria, N.B. Baptism Aug 1828. Died 12 May 1991 in Woodstock, N.B. Willard and Alice have a poultry farm and sell produce, meat, poultry, cream, buttermilk, butter, and eggs at the Farm Market, Woodstock, N.B. They were told by the Federal Government that they must reduce their flock of 600 chickens to 199, or face a trial. Thus ends the Kimball's' thirty-year small business venture, since, by bureaucratic decree, they cannot be given a proper "quota" by the government. Arnold MacLeod, chairman of the N.B. Egg Marketing Board, said the Kimballs must reduce their flock to the 200 bird level because, "it's the law. You can't drive down the highway at 100 m.p.h., and you can't have over 200 birds without a quota; it's as simple as that," he said. MacLeod said the quotas were issued by the government 11 years ago, when the Egg Marketing Board was formed because of over production. Then he admitted that New Brunswick now imports eggs from other provinces, such as Nova Scotia, P.E.I., Quebec, Ontario, and even the United States. Mrs. Alice Kimball replied: "This is just not a free country anymore."
He married Alice Jean FAULKNER. They were living (1995) in Hartland, N.B., and had the following children:

Author's note: The apparently illogical numbers following the descendant's names are nothing more than random, computer-assigned numbers by which the author, and future CFA Historians, can locate a particular person in the Cogswell Family Association's database. If the reader will include both the name and number in his or her requests for further information, vast amounts of time and effort may be saved by both the Historian and the correspondent.

History of Medina County, Ohio, 1881, Baskin & Battey: "William Coggswell, my great-great-grandfather, was born in Ipswich, England. In 1666 he became the owner of a vessel, and, taking in a company, he sailed for America, landing at Boston Harbor. After several voyages to and from England, he finally settled in Ipswich, Mass." [William wrote in his memoirs that William (28005 above) founded and named the town of Ipswich, sometime after 1666. Of course, John Winthrop founded Ipswich, Mass., in 1633; Saybrook, in 1635; and New London, in 1646. Also, William may have reversed his father and grandfather in his memoirs. Perhaps a coincidence, but the Revolutionary War Veterans of Summit Co., Ohio, Lafayette Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, Akron, Ohio, list: COGGSWELL, SAMUEL. b. 2 Nov 1748, Ipswich, Mass., d. circa 1828; m. _____ Gates, daughter of Lt. Gibson Gates. Had sons William, Samuel, and Nathaniel. Had land grant for military service; came to Bath 1824. In 1801, he became the owner of 200 acres of land in Beaver County, Penn., by virtue of a soldier's right. In 1802 he moved there."

Choral Arts Society, while she was legally separated from Mr. Tucker, who had not generated a child during five years of marriage. Denise wanted a child, and it is well known that Cogswell women are not easily or often denied the achievement of their goals. Although the author was at first dismayed by the "unusual" circumstances described above, both Denise and James are sources of immense pride and satisfaction. James K. Cogswell is an uncommonly handsome, bright, and engaging young man. At age three, James knew far more about trains than his grandfather learned in fifty years. He has bestowed a vast measure of happiness upon each soul he's encountered. May his life be the exciting and fulfilling odyssey for which his heritage has prepared him, and for which he seems well qualified.

Daily Ledger, New Albany, Ind. - 16 Oct 1869: "A serious runaway accident occurred on the Paoli Pike yesterday, the driver of the New Albany and Greenville bus, Washington Coggswell, receiving permanent injuries and the passengers a big scare. It seems that Mr. Coggswell was driving along the pike leading to this city, and at a point about six miles from town, his horses took fright at some object and started on the run. Mr. C. threw his whole weight upon the lines to check them, but in doing so one of them gave way and the animals dashed on at a rapid rate. Mr. C. became alarmed at the frightful rate of speed and jumped off his box to the ground, breaking his leg at the ankle in such a manner that he will probably be lamed for life. There were eight passengers in the bus, three of whom were ladies." Article furnished by the Indiana History Room, New Albany Public Library, New Albany, Ind.
